PM targets Jawaharlal Nehru during Vande Mataram debate

PM Modi in Lok Sabha blamed Congress and Nehru for restricting Vande Mataram, calling it appeasement-driven

NEW DELHI

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Monday accused the Congress of fragmenting the national song Vande Mataram under the pretext of maintaining social harmony, alleging that the party continues to follow a politics of appeasement. Addressing the Lok Sabha during a discussion on the song's 150th anniversary, Modi specifically criticised former Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru for agreeing that the song could antagonise Muslims.

Modi cited a letter from Nehru to Subhash Chandra Bose, written after a protest by Mohammad Ali Jinnah in Lucknow, in which Nehru expressed concern that the background of Vande Mataram might provoke anger among Muslim communities. The Prime Minister claimed that the Congress later convened a session in Bankim Chandra Chatterjee's Bengal to review the song's use, but compromised on October 26 by adopting only a portion of it. Modi said this division of the song was a result of appeasement politics, asserting that such concessions ultimately contributed to the Partition of India.

He also referenced the Emergency imposed by Indira Gandhi in 1975, noting that during Vande Mataram's centenary, patriotic citizens were jailed and the Constitution was undermined. Modi criticised the 1937 decision to adopt only the first two stanzas of the song in national gatherings, claiming that it planted seeds of division that endured for decades.

OPPOSITION'S REMARK

Priyanka questions need for debate on Vande Mataram

Priyanka Gandhi questioned why Parliament was debating Vande Mataram 79 years after independence instead of addressing pressing national issues. Calling the discussion politically motivated ahead of the Bengal elections, she accused the government of diverting attention and attacking freedom fighters like Nehru. She said the national song needs no debate and criticised PM Modi, alleging declining confidence and weakening policies.

Congress terms Modi "Master Distorian"

The Congress on Monday criticized Prime Minister Narendra Modi, calling him the "Master Distorian" after he accused the party of breaking the national song Vande Mataram and demanded an apology for allegedly insulting India's founding fathers, including Rabindranath Tagore. AICC general secretary Jairam Ramesh said Modi's remarks in Parliament disrespected Tagore and Nehru, who was accused of pursuing appeasement politics.

Winter Session of K'taka legislature begins in Belagavi

BELAGAVI

The winter session of the Karnataka Legislature began on December 8 with the Assembly paying tributes to six persons who died recently, including environmentalist Saalumarada Thimmakka, Kannada novelist S.L. Bhyrappa and former Minister H.Y. Meti.

The session commenced amid an undercurrent of a power tussle between Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and his deputy D.K. Shivakumar (DKS). Despite efforts to display unity—including mutual breakfast meetings on November 29 and December 2—the session is expected to expose lingering rifts within the Congress. The Opposition, led by BJP-JD(S), plans to leverage these internal divisions while raising key issues such as farmers' distress and teacher protests over contract appointments, especially in North Karnataka, a region heavily dependent on agriculture.

BJP Legislative Council Leader of Opposition Chalavadi Narayanaswamy stated that the party would press the Congress on the administration's neglect of sugarcane and maize farmers, as well as delays in addressing unemployment and irrigation concerns. BJP state president B.Y. Vijayendra also indicated the party may move a no-confidence motion despite lacking sufficient numbers in the Assembly.

BJP to lay siege to Suvarna Vidhana Soudha

Belagavi gears up for a massive protest today, as the BJP plans to "lay siege" to Suvarna Vidhana Soudha. The demonstration, involving 10,000–20,000 farmers and party workers, aims to spotlight the Congress government's alleged inaction on farmers' issues. Leaders call it one of the largest recent farmer-led movements, demanding accountability and justice for the agrarian crisis.

The disruptions have been widespread. Between November 21 and December 7, a total of 9,55,591 PNRs were cancelled, with refunds amounting to ₹827 crore. This indicates that approximately 3.68 lakh PNRs were cancelled between November 21 and 30 alone, during which IndiGo returned ₹2.57 crore to customers.

It also said that IndiGo plans to operate 1,802 of its 2,300 daily flights to 137 of its 138 destinations, with nearly 500 cancellations for the day.

HDK hits back at CM, questions his contribution to Mandya

NEW DELHI

Union Minister H. D. Kumaraswamy on Monday launched a sharp counterattack on Chief Minister Siddaramaiah for questioning his contributions to Mandya district. Addressing reporters at his New Delhi residence, Kumaraswamy challenged the Chief Minister to first outline his own achievements before seeking answers from others. He criticised Siddaramaiah's previous term, pointing out that more than 200 farmers in Mandya died by suicide between 2013 and 2018. In contrast, he highlighted that his government had waived ₹900 crore in loans to support distressed farmers in the district.

Kumaraswamy accused the state government of neglecting farmers facing repeated climate disasters. He said the administration failed to respond to the crash in tur dal prices in Kalyana Karnataka and had not opened procurement centres on time. "After months of delay, you suddenly seek a central inspection team. What report do you expect now?" he asked.

HDK defends call to teach Bhagavad Gita

Minister H. D. Kumaraswamy defended his proposal to introduce the Bhagavad Gita in school curricula, questioning how teaching moral values could be branded as "Manuvadi." Addressing the media, he said the growing drug menace in Karnataka was destroying young lives, and the Gita could guide children toward discipline and ethical thinking. Criticising CM and Minister Mahadevappa for attacking him, he asked whether writing to the Union Education Minister on value-based education could be considered a crime.

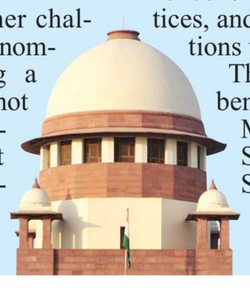
SC seeks response from Priyank Kharge over 2023 election plea

NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Monday issued notice to Karnataka IT Minister Priyank Kharge regarding a petition challenging his election from the Chittapur (SC) constituency in the 2023 Karnataka Assembly polls. The plea, filed by Ashwathram, a registered voter from Chittapur, alleged that Kharge and his agents circulated pamphlets titled "Congress Guarantees" during the campaign, offering direct monetary transfers and other targeted benefits to voters. The petitioner claimed these pamphlets were not part of the official Congress manifesto and lacked statutory printer and publisher disclosures as required under the Representation of People Act (RPA), effectively amounting to inducements or bribery under Section 123(1) RPA.

The plea further challenged Kharge's nomination, citing a caste certificate not issued in the prescribed format and alleged misrepresentation of educational qualifications. According to the petitioner, these defects collectively undermined the election, rendering it void under Sections 100(1)(b) and 100(1)(d) of the RPA. The Karnataka High Court had earlier dismissed the petition, holding that the pamphlets did not constitute corrupt practices, and the other allegations were immaterial.

The Supreme Court bench of Justices M M Sundresh and Satish Chandra Sharma has directed Kharge to respond.



Points to Ponder

- Petition alleges "Congress Guarantees" pamphlets promised monetary benefits to voters.
- Nomination challenged due to defective caste certificate, misrepresented educational qualifications.
- Petitioner argues High Court erred; accountability ensures free and fair elections.

Food Minister KH Muniyappa said low rice usage in North Karnataka caused misuse, asserting the government is taking legal action and will provide Indira Kits with essential items from January 2026.

Central govt should provide answers to NK's problems: DCM

BENGALURU

The central government has to answer the problems of North Karnataka (NK). Regarding the problems of sugarcane growers and maize, I and CM Siddaramaiah have taken a decision that will be costly for the state government, said Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar.

Responding to a question about whether North Karnataka's problems will be solved in the Belagavi session with the media near Sadashivanagara residence, he said that the central government has not spoken out about the problems of sugarcane growers and maize. BJP MPs have not raised their voices on any of the state's problems. Bommai is saying that the state government should buy. If so, what is the role of the central government. Who decides this. The central government fixes the price for everything. However, the central government has not taken any decision on these issues so far. We are here to provide relief. Isn't it the responsibility of the central government in this. Why has Bommai not raised his voice on this issue in Parliament so far. Has he not met the Prime Minister and the Union Agriculture Minister and discussed it, he questioned.

Meanwhile, talking about the irrigation problem and non-implementation of the project, he said that no one in the history of the department has done as many projects for irrigation projects as were done during my tenure. He said that he will not speak in front of the media on this issue, let the opposition parties raise this issue in the session, and I will reply there.

When asked about Navjot Singh Sidhu's wife's statement that he should be given Rs 500 crore to become a Minister in the Congress, he said, let's hospitalize the person who said this. Let's hospitalize him in a good mental hospital.

Asked if he would be leaving for Delhi by December 20, he said, I am holding a global conference in Hyderabad. Our neighboring state has invited us, and I and some officials are going there. We will discuss the rest later, he said.

KHBF URGES GOVERNMENT TO NOTIFY NEW APARTMENT ACT

BENGALURU

The Karnataka Home Buyers Forum (KHBF), an umbrella body representing apartment purchasers across the state, has urged the govt to immediately release the long-pending apartment Act, citing mounting legal complications and non-compliance with key provisions of the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016.

KHBF has been campaigning for effective implementation of RERA, particularly Section 17, which mandates that common areas in a housing project must be transferred by the promoter to the Association of Allottees (AoA). However, there has not been much forward movement on this front as, in many projects, the AoA is not registered as a 'body corporate', a statutory prerequisite for transferring common areas.

In its statement, the forum warned that continued failure to operationalise this requirement could have severe implications, especially during redevelopment or in the event of structural failures which could result in damage to or collapse of buildings. Without a registered association, promoters cannot legally transfer land or common areas, leaving thousands of homebuyers without full ownership rights.

KHBF members said they have pursued remedies across several institutions such as the RERA authority, RERA appellate tribunal, Karnataka High Court, Human Rights Commission, and the Lokayukta in an effort to draw the government's attention to the issue. In fact, hopes soared in January this year when the High Court, hearing a writ petition, directed the state to submit its response on the proposed apartment Act.

The Court also noted that the govt had earlier given a written commitment to frame and notify legislation. But almost a year after the HC directive, the government has neither filed its response nor released the Act, despite assurances given during the election campaign, KHBF Convener Dhananjaya Padmanabhachar said, terming the delay, a denial of statutory rights to homebuyers". Bangalore Apartments' Federation (BAF) has also demanded that the govt update the archaic Karnataka Apartment Ownership Act, 1972 to end the administrative chaos and litigation caused by the lack of clear management and ownership rights.

Opposition erupts against IPL permission for Chinnaswamy Stadium

BENGALURU

Opposition has erupted after Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar hinted at allowing cricket matches to be held at the M Chinnaswamy Stadium. Senior advocate NP Amritesh has appealed to the officials of all the concerned departments that permission should not be given to host any cricket matches, including the IPL, at the Chinnaswamy Stadium.

He has submitted a detailed letter to the Chief Secretary of the state government, Home Department, Police Department, Fire and Emergency Services Department, Public Works Department, and Karnataka State Cricket Association, mentioning several points.

A suo motu inquiry is pending in the High Court into the stampede that occurred during the celebrations of the Royal Challengers Bangalore team. Expert reports have said that the stadium is unsafe for public gatherings. DCM D.K. Shivakumar has made a statement on the spot about granting permission to hold IPL matches at the Chinnaswamy Stadium when RCB fans put pressure on him. This is a direct political decision taken without consulting the concerned departments. Permission should not be given keeping in mind the loss of lives that has already occurred, ignoring expert reports.

The inquiry by Justice John Michael de Cunha's commission found the stadium unsuitable and unsafe for mass gatherings. Safer alternative stadiums are available in the outskirts of Bengaluru or other cities, where it is better to host matches. Modern cricket is broadcast-based and can be broadcast live without crowds, Amritesh explained in the letter.

DCM DK Shivakumar, who spoke to the media after voting in the Karnataka State Cricket Association elections held on Sunday, had spoken about legally allowing international matches to be held again at the Chinnaswamy Stadium.

Keeping in mind the capacity to handle the crowd, we will use the Chinnaswamy Stadium appropriately within the legal framework and will also build another big stadium as an alternative. We will be careful not to let tragedies like stampede happen in the future. Be it IPL or World Cup matches, we will not let any opportunities slip away from here. We will organize it here. This is the honor of the state of Karnataka and Bengaluru. We will save it, the DCM had said.

K-RERA warns builders: Insure common areas or pay

RERA has raised the bar for construction standards by enforcing a policy that compels builders to secure insurance

BENGALURU

Builders must insure common areas or risk footing the bill for disaster repairs - that is the message from Karnataka Real Estate Regulatory Authority (K-RERA). In a recent order, the authority directed the developers of an apartment complex on Kanakapura Road to furnish all insurance documents for the project within 30 days, while partly allowing a complaint linked to a fire that damaged the clubhouse of Block 4.The case arose from a fire on Jan 30, 2024, when resident Dhananjaya noticed smoke coming from the clubhouse. The blaze destroyed the ladies' washroom and sauna facility. He told the tribunal that no repair or restoration work was taken up despite repeated requests.

He further said that although all blocks were ready, the promoter had not formed the association of allottees or transferred the common areas as required under RERA.

They also alleged that the promoter had not shared any insurance details under Section 16, raising concern about whether the clubhouse had any cover at all. Dhananjaya filed a complaint on May 4, 2024, seeking directions to restore the damaged clubhouse and hand over all insurance documents to the association.

The builders rejected all claims. They said the clubhouse and shared amenities were handed over to the apartment owners' association on November 2, 2019.

Once that transfer was completed, responsibility for safety and maintenance rested with the association, not the promoter. The builders relied on an inquiry commissioned by the association, which found that the fire was caused by overheating of the sauna heater and not by any structural or electrical defect. They pointed out that the complainant had not named the association as a party to the case despite its role in day-to-day upkeep. After examining the submissions, the tribunal accepted the findings of the inquiry report and held that the promoter cannot be directed to carry out repairs for an incident that occurred years after handover. However, the panel drew a firm line on the insurance lapse. It noted that the promoter had not submitted any insurance policies, premium receipts, or records showing transfer of insurance benefits to the association, all of which are mandatory under Section 16 of RERA. It observed that, insurance for common areas is mandatory under RERA, adding that residents cannot be left to bear losses that should have been insured against.

BDA proposes steep penalty regime on vacant sites

BENGALURU

The Bangalore Development Authority (BDA) will soon begin levying a one-time 10 percent non-construction fine on allottees who fail to build houses within three years of receiving their sites. Officials said the rule will be strictly enforced and sale deeds will not be issued unless construction is completed.This targets beneficiaries, who failed to construct homes or transferred plots illegally, despite enjoying massive appreciation in land values. However, Arkavathy and Nadaprabhu Kempegowda Layout (NPKL) are exempt, as delays, litigation and incomplete infrastructure prevented allottees there from starting the construction.Under the scheme, BDA allotted sites at non-market rates strictly to applicants who did not own houses. It executed agreement-cum-sale deeds that barred the transfer of the property for 10 years, later reduced to five. While many allottees built houses, several left the plots vacant after paying as little as Rs 5,000 in the 1960s and 1970s. Today, many of these sites are valued at nearly Rs 10 crore. As per rules, BDA is empowered to resume such sites or recover the cost when violations occur.

However, court directions restrained the authority from taking back sites and instead directed it to frame a penalty-based regularisation policy.

Until recently, penalties were levied as flat rates, Rs 1.5 lakh for 20x30 ft sites, Rs 2 lakh for 30x40 ft plots, and Rs 4 lakh for 60x40 ft sites. Last year, the BDA board revised the policy, fixing the penalty at 10 percent of the prevailing guidance value, irrespective of site size. The new regime came into effect on August 19, 2024, and its implementation will now be stepped up. With guidance values climbing sharply, penalties now run into lakhs and in premium localities, even crores, leading to stiff resistance from violators.

For instance, a Jayanagar allottee who bought a 50x80 site for around Rs 5,000 to Rs 10,000 could earlier regularise the violation for nearly Rs 10,000. Today, the property is worth nearly Rs 10 crore, and under the new 10 percent guidance value rule, the penalty may become Rs 1 crore, which many are unable to pay. This has created major problems, so BDA is taking the matter to the board. In the next meeting, all details will be placed before the board, and penalties may increase further, the official added.

BDA has also flagged cases where allottees are approaching the authority only for sale deeds for obtaining e-khata. Once khata is secured later, they allegedly fail to return to regularise violations while continuing to enjoy full ownership benefits. Around 50 such cases have been detected so far.Illegal transfers made during the restricted agreement period will also come under scrutiny. Such violations will attract a 25 percent penalty on the loss transaction value for transferring sites without BDA permission, BDA officials added.

BDA Chairman NA Harris said, regarding the penalty for allottees who haven't constructed houses in BDA layouts, except Arkavathy and Nadaprabhu Kempegowda layouts, the rule is clear: they must build, or they will be penalised. They also won't get their sale deed if construction isn't completed. We've asked that this be strictly enforced, he said.

BENGALURU

The accused in the cell are Anu Kumar, Jagga, Nagaraj, Pradosh and Lakshman. Fed up with Darshan's constant harassment, fellow inmates have sought transfer to another jail and one of the inmates has threatened to commit suicide.

After the photos inside the jail went viral, the jail rules were further tightened. IPS officer Anshu Kumar has been appointed as the chief superintendent of the jail and has enforced the strictest rules as soon as he took charge. It is said that the accused Darshan has lost his mental stability due to these new and stringent rules. Now he has to clean the toilets inside the cell as well, which has added to Darshan's mental stress.

Chairing the district-level coordination meeting at the DC office on Monday, Additional Deputy Commissioner B.T. Kumaraswamy instructed officials to ensure that no eligible child is left out of vaccination coverage.

He said that the target includes 98,279 children in rural areas and 28,082 children in urban zones. Emphasizing the importance of comprehensive planning, he urged officials from the Health Department, School Education Department, Women and Child Development Department, and other wings to work collectively to achieve 100% vaccination. He further stressed the need to raise awareness about the serious consequences of polio and encourage families to get their children immunized without fail.

At the taluk level, Tahsildars have been directed to hold coordination meetings and focus on high-risk areas by setting up well-organized Pulse Polio booths. ASHA and Anganwadi workers must participate actively, ensuring that every household is reached during the programme.

District Health and Family Welfare Officer Dr. G.P. Renu Prasad shared that preparations have been completed with 1,091 vaccination centres, 63 transit points, and 15 mobile teams. Wild elephant menace intensifies again in Ch'magaluru

Chikkamagaluru residents face renewed fear as another wild elephant destroys crops just months after a fatal attack

CHIKKAMAGALURU

The conflict between humans and wild elephants in the district continues to escalate, with villagers once again gripped by fear after a lone tusker entered farmlands at night and damaged crops. The incident comes just months after a wild elephant attacked and killed a man in the same region, highlighting the growing severity of the human–animal conflict.

The latest intrusion has been reported from the same gram panchayat limits where the earlier tragedy occurred. A few months ago, the Kerekate area of Sringeri witnessed a fatal attack when a wild elephant charged at a local resident and took his life. Now, another elephant has been sighted roaming the area during nighttime, destroying arecanut, banana and paddy crops, causing significant losses to farmers.

Villagers say that despite repeated appeals, no permanent measures have been implemented to curb the elephant menace. Fencing, early-warning systems and elephant-proof trenches have been either insufficient or poorly maintained. As a result, the residents of this hilly region continue to live in constant anxiety.

Forest officials have begun monitoring the movement of the elephant, but the rugged terrain and dense vegetation make it difficult to track its path. Efforts are underway to drive the animal back into the forest, but locals fear the elephant may return unless long-term solutions are adopted.

Residents of Kerekate and the surrounding hamlets under the same panchayat are urging authorities to act swiftly before another tragedy occurs. They stress that crop damage not only affects livelihoods but also increases the risk of fatal encounters when villagers attempt to guard their fields at night.

The recurring incidents have once again sparked a debate about the need for sustainable mitigation strategies, including habitat restoration, relocation, and technology-assisted monitoring.

A leopard attack in Maddur taluk killed four sheep and injured two, intensifying fear among villagers and farmers statewide

Leopard attack in Maddur claims four sheep, triggers fear among farmers

MADDUR

Leopard menace continues to trouble residents of Maddur taluk, where a fresh attack resulted in the death of four sheep and left two others critically injured. The incident occurred in Valagerehalli village, causing panic among local farmers who say such attacks have become increasingly frequent.

According to sources, a leopard entered the shed behind the house of farmer Srinivas. The predator attacked six out of the 18 sheep housed there. Hearing the distressing cries of his livestock, Srinivas rushed to the shed, only to find the leopard mauling his animals. Startled by his shouts, the leopard fled into the darkness. By then, four sheep had already succumbed to the attack, while two remained severely injured and are battling for life.

Following the incident, Range Forest Officer Gaviappa visited the spot and conducted an inspection. He informed villagers that several cages had already been installed across nearby villages to capture leopards and that a number of them had been successfully trapped and relocated to forest areas on the orders of higher authorities. He assured that the Forest Department would take all necessary steps to capture the leopard responsible for this attack.

Gaviappa also stated that sincere efforts would be made to ensure timely compensation for Srinivas, who suffered the loss of his livestock.

Meanwhile, the increasing leopard activity across the taluk has created fear among farmers, many of whom are now reluctant to visit their fields during nighttime. In some villages, leopards are reportedly spotted even during early morning hours. Farmers have urged forest officials to take stronger and immediate measures to curb the growing menace and protect rural communities.

HAVERI FAMILY TRAGEDY

Man ends life after daughter-in-law booked for murder

HAVERI

At a time when crime is increasingly normalized and even glorified by some, there remain individuals who value dignity above all else. In a deeply tragic incident from Haveri district, a man who could not bear the humiliation brought upon his family chose to end his life.

The deceased has been identified as Dadapira, a 38-year-old resident of Venkatapur village. Known in the community as a quiet, honorable man, he had been living peacefully with his wife and was well-regarded among his relatives. His younger brother, Mohammed Rafiq, got married just eight months ago to a woman named Noorbaby from Gutala. After their marriage, the couple moved to another town for work.

However, things reportedly turned turbulent between Rafiq and Noorbaby soon after. Frequent quarrels became a regular occurrence, and the family was aware of the disputes. Despite several mediation attempts, both families failed to find a solution.

Matters took a shocking turn when Noorbaby was accused in a murder case, and police registered a case against her. This unexpected and serious allegation cast a shadow over the entire family. The news spread quickly in the village, leading to gossip, stigma and mounting pressure on the family's reputation.

Unable to bear the shame and emotional burden of the situation, Dadapira reportedly slipped into deep distress. Feeling dishonored by the accusations against his daughter-in-law and fearing the social consequences, he took the extreme step of hanging himself. His death has left the entire village in shock.

Police have launched an investigation into both the suicide and the murder case involving the daughter-in-law. Villagers described Dadapira as a man of principles who preferred to endure hardship rather than compromise his dignity.

Vatal Nagaraj demands ban on MES, warns of Kannada activism

Vatal Nagaraj urged the Karnataka government to immediately ban MES

RAMANAGARA

Karnataka Chaluvali Vatal Paksha president Vatal Nagaraj has demanded that the Maharashtra Ekikaran Samiti (MES) be banned in the state, declaring that he will hold a solo protest in front of the Suvarna Vidhana Soudha in Belagavi if the government fails to act.

Speaking at a protest held on Monday at Aijuru Circle, he said MES has no role in Karnataka and no connection with the people of the state. Let them do whatever they want in Maharashtra. This government, which seems deaf and mute, is failing to show its strength. I will continue the struggle to alert the government. MES must be banned in Karnataka, he insisted.

Referring to Minister Lakshmi Hebbalkar's recent remarks suggesting the division of Belagavi, Nagaraj demanded an immediate withdrawal of the statement. He questioned whether such comments were paving the way for merging parts of Belagavi with Maharashtra. He warned that Belagavi must remain united and any talk of division would face fierce resistance from Kannada activists.

Kannadigas are peace-loving, but do not provoke us. You repeatedly try to gain attention by creating controversies. Not an inch of Karnataka's land will be given away. MES hooliganism will not be tolerated. Vacate Belagavi first, or Kannadigas will be forced to show their strength, he cautioned.

Responding to the ongoing aviation crisis, Nagaraj criticised IndiGo Airlines for causing hardships to passengers over the past week. He said the company had failed to arrange alternatives and questioned whether the Union Ministry of Civil Aviation was functioning at all. Despite repeated issues, neither Prime Minister Narendra Modi nor the Civil Aviation Minister had intervened, he alleged. He demanded an immediate resolution and said the prime minister should resign if the crisis continues. Kannada activists plan to lay siege to the international airport on Tuesday afternoon to press their demand.

Chinese national detained for visiting J&K without permission

Srinagar

A Chinese national visiting J&K and Ladakh without permission has been detained by authorities, officials said. Hu Congtai, 29, arrived in Delhi on November 19 on a tourist visa, which permitted him to visit Buddhist religious places in Varanasi, Agra, New Delhi, Jaipur, Sarnath, Gaya, and Kushinagar, according to officials. However, leveraging his resemblance to locals, he boarded a flight to Leh on November 20 and did not register at the Foreigners Regional Registration Office counter located at the Leh airport. During his stay, he toured the Zanskar region for three days and visited places of importance in the Himalayan town before landing in Srinagar on December 1, the official said.

Yadav slams BJP for 'owning nationalism' during LS debate

Akhilesh Yadav criticised the BJP for claiming exclusive nationalism and politicising Vande Mataram during a special Lok Sabha session

Samajwadi Party chief Akhilesh Yadav on Monday launched a sharp attack on the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP), accusing the ruling party of attempting to own everything and claim exclusive nationalism, which he termed Rashtra-vivadi (anti-national). Speaking during a special session of the Lok Sabha convened to mark 150 years of the national song Vande Mataram, Yadav emphasised that the song belonged to every Indian and must never be reduced to a political tool.

In his address, Yadav recalled the deep historical significance of Vande Mataram, stating that its roots in India's freedom struggle should remain above partisan narratives. When in Kolkata, Congress leaders and Rabindranath Tagore sang this, it reached the common people, and when people fought against the British, the slogan of Vande Mataram played a major role in uniting them, he said. He noted that the song had once alarmed British authorities to the extent that they jailed people under sedition charges for chanting it. From 1905 to 1908, Vande Mataram was banned by the British, but they could not stop our revolution, and our freedom fighters kept taking it forward, he added.

Targeting the BJP's ideological positioning, Yadav alleged that the ruling party wanted to own everything, including ideas and values it had no historical connection with. He referred to earlier debates during the formation of the BJP and the ideological direction its early leadership chose to follow. When the organisation was being formed, there was a debate on whether the BJP would walk the secular and socialist path or not.

Kabir's mosque donation video triggers fresh storm

KOLKATA

A video showing stacks of currency notes being counted as part of the donations for the proposed Babri Mosque at Beldanga in Murshidabad district has drawn wide attention after suspended Trinamool Congress MLA Humayun Kabir posted it on his social media page. The footage has circulated rapidly, prompting fresh debate on the scale and source of the funds collected.

The legislator from the Bharatpur constituency has hinted that he may launch his new political party on December 22. Kabir said on Monday that 11 trunks filled with currency notes had been collected as cash offerings from local residents since Saturday, the day the foundation stone for the proposed mosque was laid.

The exact worth of the currencies collected as cash donations is yet to be ascertained, he said.

He added that online contributions had also come in, noting that about Rs 93 lakh had been received through a QR code he had posted on his social media page.

Kabir, however, did not divulge the details about an unnamed donor whom he says has pledged about Rs 80 crore for the project. He only described the individual as a Muslim businessman with an annual turnover of more than Rs 4,000 crore. He did not disclose the person's identity or place of origin, which has led to further questions.

He reiterated that the proposed mosque budget is Rs 300 crore, with plans to replicate the original structure that stood in Ayodhya, which was demolished on December 6, 1992.

Vijay's TVK filed a new application for its December 16 Erode rally after police denied the original venue.

TVK submits fresh request for permission to hold rally in Erode

ERODE

Actor-politician Vijay's Tamilaga Vetri Kazhagam (TVK) has renewed its push to conduct a major public rally in Erode on December 16, submitting a fresh application on Monday after the district police rejected its earlier request citing security and space constraints. The move underscores the party's determination to proceed with one of its most significant campaign events ahead of the 2026 Tamil Nadu Assembly elections.

TVK's State Executive Committee Chief Coordinator Sengottaiyan, accompanied by senior party administrators, met Erode Collector Kandhasamy at the Collectorate camp office in Sampath Nagar on Monday morning. The delegation formally submitted a renewed petition seeking permission for the rally. A parallel representation was also filed with the Erode District Superintendent of Police, signalling the party's intention to follow due procedure despite the setback.

The rally was initially planned on a seven-acre private vacant land located near Pavalathampalayam on the Erode–Perundurai Road. However, a police team led by Superintendent of Police Sujatha inspected the venue and concluded that it lacked adequate space for crowd management. Officials also expressed concerns over potential safety risks, prompting the denial of permission.

Following the refusal, TVK leaders held urgent consultations with district-level executives to reassess venue options. During these discussions, an alternative site near Perundurai was identified as a more viable location. The party submitted a fresh request seeking police clearance for the new venue later in the day.

Sengottaiyan affirmed TVK's commitment to adhering to all government regulations, stating, We will conduct the rally strictly in accordance with government rules and security guidelines once permission is granted.

Maharashtra government urges Centre to include leopards in Schedule 2 of the Act

NAGPUR

The Maharashtra government has appealed to the Centre to exclude leopards from Schedule 1 of the Wildlife Protection Act and include them in Schedule 2 amid increasing deaths due to attacks in various parts of the state.

Forest Minister Ganesh Naik on Monday said the burgeoning man-animal conflict has been extensively discussed in the state government, and the issue has also been taken up with the Centre with an appeal for its urgent intervention.

Naik said that the conservationists and some people took a serious objection to my statement that the forest department officers should shoot the leopards after a few deaths were reported, especially in residential colonies. However, the leopards are included in Schedule One. Therefore, there are limitations on catching and killing man-eating leopards. Therefore, a proposal has now been sent to the Central government to remove leopards from Schedule One. Permission for the sterilisation of leopards has been received from the Central government. Therefore, man-eating leopards should be found and sterilised, he added.

According to the forest department sources, leopards are currently listed under Schedule I, which gives them the highest level of protection, making the process of catching or killing man-eating leopards a restricted and complicated process.

Following a recent increase in fatal leopard attacks on humans, particularly in the Pune, Nashik, and Ahilyanagar districts, residents and politicians have demanded government action. The intent behind including leopards in Schedule 2 is to enable broader intervention in conflict zones and provide authorities with more flexibility in dealing with problem animals, such as easier capture, translocation, or, in extreme cases, killing of man-eaters if they cannot be captured or tranquillised.

Flight cancellations leave Patna passengers stranded

PATNA

The ongoing IndiGo operational crisis continued to disrupt air travel from Patna Airport on Monday, with multiple flights cancelled, leaving passengers stranded for the seventh consecutive day.

On Sunday, many travellers missed job interviews and important engagements, while others were forced to wait at the airport for hours. A total of 10 IndiGo flights to Chennai, Bengaluru, Delhi, Ahmedabad, Kolkata, and other destinations were cancelled.

Several arrival and departure flights also experienced delays of up to 30 minutes.

According to airport officials, five IndiGo flights scheduled to depart on Monday to cities including Delhi, Bengaluru, Chennai, and Kolkata have also been cancelled. Passengers affected by cancellations or delays are being contacted individually.

As a result, the footfall at IndiGo ticket counters on Sunday was noticeably lower than usual. Many passengers claimed their flight tickets were renewed twice or thrice, but they were unable to travel to their desired destinations due to cancellations.

Airline officials have stated that operations are expected to return to normal by December 15. A help desk has also been set up at the airport, and a dedicated helpline -- 9771449159 -- has been issued for travellers.

12 Maoists, including top leader Ramdher to surrender

Twelve maoists, including top leader Ramdher Majji, surrendered in Chhattisgarh, dealing a major setback to Maoist operations.

RAIPUR

In a significant achievement for security forces, 12 Naxalites — among them the notorious Central Committee Member (CCM) Ramdher Majji — surrendered before police authorities in Chhattisgarh's Khairagarh Chhuikhadan Gandai district. The surrender, which took place at the Bakarkatta police station, is being hailed as one of the most impactful blows to Maoist influence in the Maharashtra-Madhya Pradesh-Chhattisgarh (MMC) zone in recent years.

Ramdher Majji, who carried a reward of ₹1 crore on his head, was widely regarded as one of the most dangerous Maoist operatives in central India. His strategic expertise, involvement in major operations, and long-standing presence in the MMC special zonal committee area made him one of the foremost challenges for security agencies across the three states. Majji surrendered along with several senior cadres, including ACM Ramsingh Dada and ACM Sukesh Pottam, and handed over an AK-47 rifle, marking a decisive shift in the ongoing counter-insurgency efforts.

Police confirmed the recovery of a sizeable cache of weapons from the group, including AK-47 rifles, INSAS rifles, SLRs, .303 rifles, and 0.30 carbines. Among the 12 who surrendered were six women cadres, indicating the deep and long-standing participation of women in the upper ranks of the Maoist movement. Those who laid down arms include Lakshmi, Sheela, Yogita, Kavita, Sagar, DVCM Lalita, and DVCM Janaki. Other prominent surrenderees include DVCM Chandu Usendi and DVCM Prem.

According to senior officials, the surrender marks a critical milestone in dismantling Maoist operations in the region. Police sources revealed that the group had been active in formulating strategies and executing operations within the MMC's special zonal committee area, often posing severe threats to state forces. The collapse of the network, particularly following Majji's surrender, is being viewed as a turning point in the fight against left-wing extremism.

Minimum temperature drops to minus 2.4 in J&K's Srinagar

SRINAGAR

Intense cold wave continued across Kashmir Valley on Monday as minimum temperature dropped to minus 2.4 degrees Celsius in Srinagar city with no immediate relief in sight from the biting cold. An intense dry cold wave has caused widespread flu and cold-related chest ailments in the valley, as doctors have issued advisories asking people not to expose themselves to severe dry cold.

The air quality index (AQI) has worsened due to the lack of precipitation and continuing addition to suspended particulate matter (SPM) in the air.

It is very important that we don't expose ourselves, especially elders and children, to the abrupt cold outside homes. The number of patients reporting with flu and other chest-related ailments triggered by dry cold has actually more than doubled during the last week, senior pulmonologist, Dr Naveed Nazir Shah said.

Night temperature remained several notches below the freezing point in other parts of the Valley as well on Monday. The Meteorological (MeT) Department officials said the minimum temperature was minus 2.4 degrees Celsius in Srinagar city, while it was minus 0.4 in Pahalgam and minus 2.5 in Gulmarg.

Jammu city had 7.9, Katra town 9.6, Batote 5.8, Banihal 4.5 and Bhaderwah 2.6 degrees as the minimum temperature. Except for a feeble western disturbance (WD) causing light snowfall in the higher reaches, there is little possibility of any major weather activity in J&K till December 15, the MeT department officials said.

Given the prevailing weather conditions, the minimum temperature is likely to drop further in the coming days, the MeT department officials added.

HYDERABAD AIRPORT THREATS

Hyderabad Airport on alert after bomb threats to flights

HYDERABAD

A fresh wave of bomb threat emails targeting three flights sent security agencies at Hyderabad's Rajiv Gandhi International Airport (RGIA) into high alert. The threats, received via email by RGIA customer support, claimed explosives were aboard flights arriving from Kannur, Frankfurt, and London Heathrow. Airport authorities immediately activated standard emergency protocols, mobilising CISF personnel, police units, and bomb disposal squads. Despite the panic sparked by the messages, all three flights landed safely and were declared clear following extensive inspections.

According to airport officials, IndiGo flight 6E 7178 from Kannur landed without incident at 10:50 p.m. on Sunday. Shortly after midnight, Lufthansa flight LH 752 from Frankfurt touched down safely at 2 a.m. on Monday. British Airways flight BA 277 from Heathrow — the third aircraft mentioned in the threat — landed at 5:20 a.m. All flights were thoroughly checked by security personnel, and the threats were confirmed to be hoaxes.

Authorities have launched an investigation to trace the origin of the threatening email. The incident has intensified concerns after a similar series of threats was issued just a day earlier. On Saturday, December 6, four flights were targeted within a 12-hour span, prompting widespread security measures at RGIA.

In Saturday's incidents, the hoax threats were emailed for Air India flight AI 2879 from Delhi, British Airways flight BA 277 from Heathrow, and Singapore Airlines flight SQ 518 from Singapore — all of which landed safely at Hyderabad after comprehensive security checks. However, Kuwait Airways flight KU 373 from Kuwait opted to return to its departure airport as a precaution since Kuwait was the closest landing point when the threat was detected.

Mamata Banerjee orchestrated Babri-style mosque ceremony

New Delhi

Minister Giriraj Singh on Monday criticised the foundation-laying ceremony of a Babri Masjid-style mosque by suspended Trinamool Congress MLA Humayun Kabir, alleging that the act was not an individual initiative but part of a political strategy backed by West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee. Speaking to reporters outside Parliament, Giriraj Singh claimed, It is not Humayun Kabir, but Mamata Banerjee who has orchestrated this. She is creating drama and extracting statements from her MPs as part of a planned narrative. He further alleged that the ceremony was an attempt to reignite Hindu-Muslim tensions.

Maharashtra seeks ₹75k cr amid debt

Nagpur

Amid rising public debt of Rs 9.32 lakh crore and higher revenue and fiscal deficits, the Maharashtra government on Monday placed supplementary demands amounting to Rs 75,286.38 crore before the state legislature. Deputy Chief Minister and Finance Minister Ajit Pawar presented the demands on the opening day of the week-long winter session. Out of the total outlay, Rs 15,648 crore has been set aside for compensation and financial aid to farmers affected by rain and floods, at a time when the state is rolling out a Rs 32,000 crore relief package for those hit by extreme weather.

Empowering women is core of MMUA scheme: Assam CM

Assam CM Himanta Biswa Sarma highlighted the MMUA scheme's focus on women's financial independence as thousands receive initial seed funding.

GUWAHATI

Assam Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma on Monday reiterated that empowering women to become financially independent remains the central objective of the state government's flagship Mukhyamantri Mahila Udyamita Abhiyan (MMUA). His remarks, posted on X, come as thousands of eligible beneficiaries across Assam have begun receiving the ₹10,000 seed fund support under the scheme. The disbursal marks a significant step in the state's ongoing efforts to strengthen self-help groups (SHGs), enhance livelihood avenues, and bring more women into formal economic decision-making.

Launched earlier this year, MMUA seeks to offer direct financial assistance to women from low-income households and SHG networks. The initiative aims to help women start small businesses, expand their existing livelihood activities, or invest in new income-generating ventures. By offering a seed fund that requires minimal paperwork and bypasses traditional banking hurdles, the scheme eliminates one of the biggest barriers rural and semi-urban women face — access to formal credit.

A senior government official stated that the scheme is expected to benefit several lakh women as disbursements move ahead in phases. The programme is seen as a natural progression of the Assam government's sustained focus on women-centric welfare measures in recent years.

One of the most notable initiatives in this regard is the Orunodoi scheme, which provides monthly financial aid directly to women as the primary household beneficiaries. The financial support ensures better access to nutrition, healthcare, and other essential goods, while strengthening women's decision-making roles at home. Together, programmes like Orunodoi and MMUA represent Assam's broader push to improve economic stability and social empowerment for women.

Maharashtra tables bill to amend Public Trusts Act

NAGPUR

The Maharashtra government introduced amendments to standardise trust administration, reduce litigation, and enhance oversight through clearer trustee classifications.

The Maharashtra government on Monday tabled a Bill to amend the Maharashtra Public Trusts Act, aiming to bring greater clarity, accountability, and uniformity to the administration of public, religious, and charitable trusts across the state. The amendments seek to resolve long-standing issues related to trustee appointments, property ownership disputes, and violations affecting beneficiaries and public welfare.

A key proposal in the Bill is the revision of the existing definition of trustee under Section 2(18). The amendment introduces two specific categories — tenure trustees and perpetual trustees — to distinguish members based on the duration of their appointment. This change, the Bill states, is essential because several trust instruments lacked clarity regarding the tenure or permanency of trustees, leading to extensive litigation before the Charity Commissioner and courts. Such disputes often delayed trust operations and negatively impacted beneficiaries.

To prevent concentration of power, the Bill mandates that perpetual trustees, who are appointed for life, cannot exceed 25 per cent of a trust's total Board strength. Additionally, if a trust deed does not specify a trustee's term, the trustee will be automatically categorised as a tenure trustee, typically with a term of up to five years. This provision is expected to streamline board management and encourage periodic review of trustee performance.

The Bill also proposes an important amendment to Section 18(6), requiring that any application for registration of a trust be accompanied by documents proving ownership or interest in immovable property claimed as trust property. The government believes this will help prevent fraudulent claims during registration and protect genuine trust assets from misuse. Further strengthening regulatory enforcement, the Bill recommends increasing penalties for violations such as unauthorised sale or leasing of trust-owned immovable property.

Bomb threat sparks panic at three places in Rajasthan

JAIPUR

Tension escalated in Rajasthan on Monday after fresh bomb threats were emailed to the Kota Collectorate, a prominent coaching institute in Kota, and the Rajasthan High Court in Jaipur. The alerts triggered an immediate response from police and security agencies, and intensive search operations are currently underway at all key locations. According to officials, the threat email sent to the Kota Collector's official address warned: The Kota Collectorate and Shikhar Coaching Centre in Jawahar Nagar will be blown up with RDX bombs.

Following the message, authorities swiftly evacuated the premises. Police teams, bomb detection and disposal squads, dog squads, and Army personnel were deployed to secure the areas and conduct thorough inspections.

Kota Collector Piyush Samaria confirmed the threat message was received at around 7.20 a.m. The email also claimed responsibility and stated the sender was allegedly based in Kerala.

So far, no explosives or suspicious items have been recovered from any of the threatened locations, suggesting a possible coordinated hoax aimed at spreading fear, said officials.

Security across government buildings and public institutions has been tightened, and cyber teams are working to trace the origin of the emails.

Authorities have urged the public to remain alert but avoid panic as the investigation continues.

Fishermen near Ennore allege Chennai Peripheral Ring Road construction has obstructed river flow, endangering livelihoods

Ennore fishermen protest peripheral ring road works

CHENNAI

As the State Highways Department accelerates construction of the Chennai Peripheral Ring Road (CPRR) connecting Mahabalipuram to Ennore Port, fishermen in the Ennore region have raised alarm over what they describe as severe disruptions to the Kosasthalaiyar River. They claim that large-scale dumping of earth and construction debris for bridge works has obstructed the natural flow of the river, posing risks to both their livelihood and safety.

Communities from Kattukuppam, Mugathuvarakuppam and Sivan Padai Kuppam rely heavily on a crucial fishing zone known as Velamaram Paadu. The bridge for the CPRR project has been built right across this stretch. Although bridge construction is reportedly complete, fishers say the temporary earthen bunds and debris placed inside the river during the project remain unremoved, narrowing the river and altering water flow patterns.

K. Murugeshan, a fisherman from Kattukuppam, said dumping began in January despite strong opposition from the local community. The Highways Department dumped huge quantities of earth into the river even as we opposed it. Our sustained protests halted the dumping for two months, but the material already dumped has narrowed the river and changed the flow pattern, he said.

In a separate petition, fisherman-activist Retnakumar warned that the constricted river mouth has sharply increased current speeds, making it hazardous for fishermen navigating traditional boats. The increased current has already caused several mishaps involving fishing vessels. This is a direct threat to fishermen's lives, he said.

Activists have further accused the Highways Department of violating conditions imposed by the Tamil Nadu State Coastal Zone Management Authority (TNSCZMA). Clearance guidelines explicitly state that the CPRR project should not obstruct natural water flow, affect fishing activities or damage the local ecosystem.

Suspended TMC MLA likely to be shifted to new seat

KOLKATA

Bharatpur MLA Humayun Kabir is likely to have his seat changed in the West Bengal Assembly after the Trinamool Congress suspended him from the party, a senior party official said on Monday. He was suspended following his controversial decision to go ahead with laying the foundation stone for a 'Babri Masjid-style' mosque in Murshidabad.

TMC Chief Whip in the state Assembly, Nirmal Ghosh, said the party was keeping an eye on the matter and it would be decided soon.

We are keeping an eye on the matter. A decision will be made on the seating arrangements of the suspended MLAs, including Kabir, in the Assembly in the next few days, he said.

Gujarat Government inaugurates new staff housing block

AHMEDABAD

The Gujarat government on Monday reinforced its push for inclusive urban development with the inauguration of newly-built government staff housing in Navrangpura. The project, comprising 44 Class-C quarters constructed by the Roads and Buildings Department, was launched in the presence of Minister of State for Urban Development Darshana Vaghela.

Speaking at the ceremony, Vaghela said the government is committed to ensuring that employees have access to safe, dignified and secure housing. She emphasised that providing quality accommodation is not just an administrative responsibility but a priority linked to the welfare of employees' families.

Vaghela also highlighted that Prime Minister Narendra Modi's vision of housing for all is being realised through various state and central schemes.

She pointed out that multiple housing projects recently inaugurated in Ahmedabad by Union Home Minister Amit Shah have helped fulfil the long-pending housing needs of low-income families, giving them a stable foundation for a better future.

The newly-inaugurated Navrangpura staff housing complex has been equipped with essential facilities, safety measures and basic amenities aimed at improving the living standards of government employees. At the event, housing allotment orders were formally distributed to eligible beneficiaries. MLA Amit Shah, R&B Department Executive Engineer Riya Modi, municipal corporators and other senior officials were present during the ceremony, which marked another step in the state's ongoing efforts to expand affordable housing infrastructure across urban Gujarat. Gujarat's housing infrastructure has expanded rapidly over the past decade, driven by a push for affordable, resilient, and well-planned urban development.

The state has focussed on providing quality housing for both low-income citizens and government employees through schemes like PMAY, PPP-based projects, and state-supported rental options.

AATMANIRBHAR DEFENCE GROWTH

Defence Minister reaffirms push for Aatmanirbhar Bharat in defence

NEW DELHI

Defence Minister Rajnath Singh, in his Armed Forces Day address, reaffirmed the government's unwavering commitment to achieving Aatmanirbhar Bharat in the defence sector, stating that India is witnessing a decisive shift from being an import-dependent nation to becoming a global defence manufacturing power. He said there was a time when India lacked the systems and capabilities to produce its own military equipment, but the last decade has seen a historic transformation in both output and capacity.

According to Singh, India's defence production value has surged by 174 per cent — from ₹46,000 crore in 2014–15 to a record ₹1.51 lakh crore in 2024–25. Defence exports have also seen exponential growth, rising from just ₹686 crore in 2013–14 to ₹23,622 crore in 2024–25. India now exports weapons, platforms and defence systems to more than 90 countries, signalling the emergence of a robust and globally competitive industry.

Officials noted that Prime Minister Narendra Modi has consistently positioned defence self-reliance as integral to India's vision of becoming a secure, confident and developed nation by 2047. Citing successful missions like Operation Sindoor, PM Modi has highlighted that combat-proven indigenous platforms strengthen national deterrence and enhance India's credibility as a dependable defence supplier.

A major factor behind this transformation, Singh said, is the government's policy of opening the defence sector to private players, thereby expanding the industrial ecosystem and creating competition-driven innovation. The preference for India-made hardware in procurement policies has further catalysed investment and technological advancement across the public and private sectors.

Strong economic growth has also enabled a sharp increase in military spending. The defence budget has nearly tripled from ₹2.53 lakh crore in 2013–14 to ₹6.81 lakh crore for 2025–26. Notably, 75 per cent of the capital procurement budget in recent years has been earmarked for domestic industry, providing predictable long-term demand and encouraging companies to invest in R&D, manufacturing capacity and strategic partnerships.

High Court stays CAT order on IAS officer's allotment to Telangana

HYDERABAD

The Telangana High Court on Monday stayed the order of the Central Administrative Tribunal (CAT) allotting IAS officer Amrapali Kata to the Telangana cadre. The stay was granted on a petition by the Department of Personnel and Training (DoPT), challenging the CAT order. The court directed the IAS officer's counsel to file the counter and adjourned the hearing for six weeks.

In June 2025, the Hyderabad branch of CAT allowed the petition of the 2010-batch IAS officer to direct the authorities to allot her to the Telangana cadre. The CAT pulled up the government for adopting a selective approach in applying the Pratyush Sinha Committee guidelines, describing the inconsistency as discriminatory.

Kata, currently serving as the Managing Director of the Andhra Pradesh Tourism Development Corporation, had approached the tribunal after the Union government rejected her request to be allotted to the Telangana cadre last year.

The CAT noted that while the guidelines framed by the Pratyush Sinha Committee were being strictly applied in some cases, they were relaxed arbitrarily for others without valid justification. Holding that such selective implementation amounts to discrimination, it found merit in Kata's arguments.

Observing that the authorities failed to provide a rationale for denying her request while accommodating others, the tribunal allowed her plea and directed the government to take appropriate steps for her cadre transfer to Telangana.

Kata was one of the four IAS officers who were directed by DoPT in October last year to join duties in Andhra Pradesh. Ronald Rose, Vani Prasad, Kata, and Karuna Vakati had to join the duties as the High Court had declined to pass any orders. The CAT, while hearing the petitions challenging the DoPT order, had also asked the officers to join duties as directed by the DoPT.

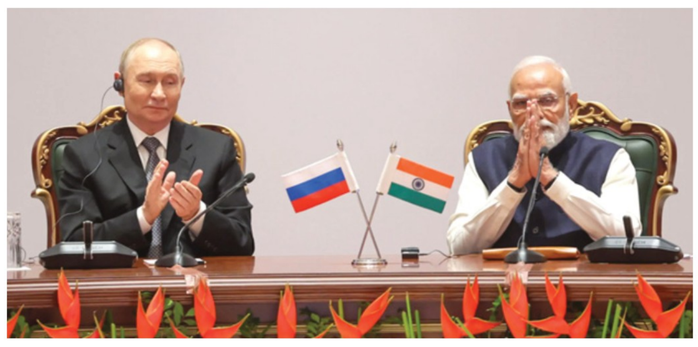
India Will Buy Fuel Where Profitable: Russia

Following Putin's India visit, he and Modi held extensive talks on politics, security, trade, economics, and cultural cooperation

MOSCOW



India will continue purchasing energy resources wherever it finds them economically advantageous, Dmitry Peskov, Press Secretary to Russian President Vladimir Putin, reaffirmed on Monday. Speaking in Moscow, Peskov called Putin's recent state visit to India "very successful" and said New Delhi's policy reflects its sovereign right to protect national economic interests.

The statement follows Putin's two-day visit to India last week, during which he met Prime Minister Narendra Modi for extensive talks at Hyderabad House as part of the 23rd India-Russia Annual Summit. The leaders discussed all aspects of bilateral relations, including politics, security, trade, economics, and cultural cooperation.

Putin emphasized that Russia remains a reliable energy supplier and will ensure "uninterrupted fuel supplies" for India's growing economy. He highlighted the growing use of national currencies in bilateral trade, noting that 96 per cent of transactions now involve the Russian ruble or Indian rupee. Large joint projects are increasingly financed in rubles, reflecting deepening financial and energy cooperation.

Both leaders witnessed the signing of multiple agreements, including Memorandums of Understanding on trade and commerce, maritime cooperation, migration and mobility, health and food safety, fertilizers, academic exchanges, media cooperation, and people-to-people ties. Putin noted that these steps strengthen the "Special and Privileged Strategic Partnership" and support sustainable, long-term cooperation.

Peskov underlined that India's energy policy is guided by economic considerations and that Russia expects New Delhi to continue sourcing fuel where it is beneficial. The statement signals continuity in India-Russia energy relations and reassures Moscow of its role as a key partner in meeting India's growing energy demands.

Macron Warns China on Trade Imbalance Tariffs

PARIS

Macron criticized China's huge trade surplus, warning Europe might impose strong measures, including tariffs, if Beijing continues minimal imports from Europe, harming its own clients

French President Emmanuel Macron has warned China that the European Union may impose tariffs if Beijing fails to address its growing trade surplus with Europe. Macron made the remarks after returning from a three-day state visit to China, where he sought increased investment and aimed to recalibrate relations with Beijing. Macron said China's massive trade surplus is unsustainable, noting that Beijing is "killing their own clients" by importing very little from Europe. He added that if China does not respond, Europe may be forced to adopt strong measures, including tariffs similar to the approach taken by the United States. France's goods trade deficit with China reached around €47 billion ($54.7 billion) last year, while China's trade surplus with the EU rose to nearly $143 billion in the first half of 2025, setting a six-month record. Tensions between France and China escalated last year after the EU imposed tariffs on Chinese electric vehicles, prompting Beijing to retaliate by restricting French cognac exports.

Macron criticized the US approach to China, saying it had worsened Europe's position by diverting Chinese goods toward the EU market. "We're stuck between the two; it's a question of life or death for European industry," he said, adding that not all EU members, including Germany, share France's stance.

The French President also emphasized Europe's need for competitiveness and highlighted the role of the European Central Bank in supporting growth and jobs, warning that its continued government bond sales could raise long-term interest rates. Macron concluded that Europe must remain a zone of monetary stability and a credible destination for investment while protecting its industrial base.

Iran Vows to Continue Peaceful Nuclear Programme

TEHRAN

Iran's Foreign Minister Seyed Abbas Araghchi on Monday reaffirmed Tehran's determination to continue its "peaceful" nuclear energy programme, following attacks that damaged but did not destroy its nuclear technology. Speaking to Japan's Kyodo News, Araghchi emphasized that Iran, like Japan, has the right as a Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty (NPT) member to use nuclear technology for peaceful purposes.

Araghchi described the June airstrikes by the United States and Israel as a major violation of international law, noting that the targeted Iranian nuclear sites were under the supervision of the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA). He expressed concern over the safety of the damaged facilities and highlighted Iran's interest in learning from Japan's experience in managing atomic disasters to enhance protection and safety measures.

On the topic of resuming nuclear talks with the United States, Araghchi stated that progress depends on Washington's approach. "If they are prepared for a fair and mutually beneficial negotiation, we are ready too," he said, noting past experiences with the US have not been positive.

Japan protested nearly 100 Chinese aircraft operations during December exercises, summoning Ambassador Wu to prevent escalation

Japan Denies Radar Lock Claims By China

TOKYO

Japan on Monday rejected China's claim that its Self-Defence Forces (SDF) fighter jets interfered with Chinese naval training, saying Japanese aircraft maintained a safe distance during operations off Okinawa. Chief Cabinet Secretary Minoru Kihara stressed the importance of communication between the two countries while reiterating Japan's commitment to air and maritime surveillance.

The dispute follows Chinese reports that its J-15 fighter jets from the carrier Liaoning had radar locks on Japanese F-15 aircraft on December 6 over international waters southeast of Okinawa. Japanese authorities called such radar locks "dangerous acts beyond what was necessary for safe flight" and vowed to monitor Chinese military activities closely.

The Japanese Defence Ministry noted that during exercises on December 6-7, Chinese fighters, helicopters, and the Liaoning conducted nearly 100 takeoffs and landings, sparking concerns about potential escalation. In response, Japan's Vice-Minister for Foreign Affairs Takehiro Funakoshi summoned Chinese Ambassador Wu Jianghao, protesting the actions and demanding they not be repeated.

China, however, dismissed Tokyo's remarks as "irresponsible hype" and "political manipulation." Foreign Ministry spokesperson Guo Jiakun said the exercises were in line with international law and professional standards, urging Japan to stop interfering and refrain from further provocations.

The tensions follow earlier remarks by Japanese Prime Minister Sanae Takaichi in November, suggesting Japan could respond if Taiwan faced an attack from China, a statement Beijing views as provocative. Both countries continue to emphasize the need for careful communication while keeping a close watch on military activities in the Pacific region.

South Korea Eyes Balanced Growth beyond Capital

SEOUL

South Korean President Lee Jae Myung on Monday stressed that balanced regional development is vital for the nation's sustainable growth. Speaking at a policy briefing, he called for tailored strategies to create new growth engines nationwide, warning that over-reliance on the Seoul metropolitan area risks undermining national potential.

Lee outlined plans for five regional hubs — Seoul metropolitan, southeast, northeast, central, and western regions — and three self-governing provinces: Jeju, Gangwon, and North Jeolla, aiming to distribute economic opportunities more evenly. He urged relocating government agencies outside Seoul, developing an administrative capital, and integrating South Chungcheong Province with Daejeon to strengthen local governance, addressing housing issues and political conflicts that hinder balanced development.

China Calls India, Russia Key Global South Members

BEIJING

China has described India, Russia, and itself as "emerging economies" and "important members of the Global South," emphasizing that strong ties among the three nations benefit not only their own interests but also regional and global peace, security, stability, and prosperity. Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesperson Guo Jiakun made the remarks at a press conference in Beijing on Monday.

Guo highlighted China's readiness to work with Russia and India to strengthen bilateral relations. On India-China ties specifically, he stressed that Beijing seeks a strategic and long-term approach, promoting sustained, healthy, and stable development to benefit both countries and contribute to peace in Asia and beyond.

The comments came shortly after Russian President Vladimir Putin's two-day state visit to New Delhi from December 4-5. During the visit, Putin met Prime Minister Narendra Modi to review the India-Russia Strategic Partnership, which marks 25 years this year. The leaders held summit talks covering defence, economic cooperation, energy ties, and regional security. The visit also included the 23rd India-Russia Annual Summit, where both nations issued a joint statement outlining future priorities. President Droupadi Murmu hosted President Putin at Rashtrapati Bhavan, describing India-Russia relations as "steadfast for many years" and expressing confidence that the partnership would continue to strengthen in the future. China's remarks underline the importance Beijing places on trilateral cooperation among the emerging economies of Asia and Russia, signaling its commitment to fostering stable international relations while supporting economic and strategic collaboration within the Global South.

OVER 2,000 AFGHAN REFUGEES DEPORTED IN DAY

KABUL

More than 2,000 Afghan refugees were forcibly repatriated from Iran and Pakistan in a single day, Taliban officials said on Monday. Deputy spokesperson Hamdullah Fitrat reported on X that 623 families, totaling 2,349 people, returned to Afghanistan on Sunday through major border crossings including Torkham in Nangarhar, Pul-i-Abresham in Nimroz, Spin Boldak in Kandahar, Bahramcha in Helmand, and Islam Qala in Herat.

According to Fitrat, 327 families were escorted to their home areas, while 512 received humanitarian assistance. Additionally, 448 SIM cards were distributed to returning refugees. The previous day, 3,134 Afghan refugees were also repatriated from Iran and Pakistan.

Reports highlight growing tensions for Afghan refugees in Pakistan, where many face harassment, arbitrary arrests, and exploitation by police and unidentified men in plain clothes. Refugees say they live in constant fear, lacking basic rights and protection. Several recounted incidents where migrants were detained and forced to pay large sums for release, unsure whether their captors were official authorities or collaborating criminals.

Human rights and refugee support groups have remained largely silent as Afghan refugees face worsening conditions. Over recent months, Pakistani authorities have intensified operations targeting undocumented migrants, contributing to an atmosphere of anxiety and uncertainty.

The Taliban government has called attention to these forced repatriations, emphasizing the need for humanitarian assistance and proper support for returning families. The situation underscores the urgent need for stronger international attention to ensure the safety, rights, and dignity of Afghan refugees in the region.

SWIFT HUMANITARIAN RESPONSE

Sri Lanka Thanks India for Cyclone Relief Support

COLOMBO

Sri Lankan MP Namal Rajapaksa on Monday expressed gratitude to India for its ongoing relief efforts under Operation Sagar Bandhu following Cyclone Ditwah. He met Indian High Commissioner to Sri Lanka, Santosh Jha, acknowledging India's swift humanitarian response.

Rajapaksa shared on X, "Called on the Indian High Commissioner Santosh Jha to express our heartfelt thanks for India's swift support during the Sri Lanka floods. India has consistently been our first responder in difficult times. Grateful to the Government and people of India."

The Indian High Commission confirmed that India will continue its support to help Sri Lanka rebuild and recover. Earlier on Sunday, India sent around 1,000 tonnes of aid, including food and clothes, with 300 tonnes reaching Colombo via three Indian Naval ships. The relief materials were handed over to Sri Lanka's Minister for Trade, Commerce, Food Security, and Cooperative Development, Wasantha Samarasinghe.

In addition to delivering aid, Indian Army Engineers joined Sri Lankan engineers and the Road Development Authority to remove a damaged bridge on the Paranthan–Karachchi–Mullaitivu (A35) road in Kilinochchi district. This joint effort aims to restore vital connectivity in cyclone-affected regions.

Operation Sagar Bandhu, launched by India on November 28, provides search and rescue as well as Humanitarian Assistance and Disaster Relief (HADR) support in the aftermath of Cyclone Ditwah, which caused severe flooding, landslides, and widespread damage.

High Commissioner Jha also met Sri Lankan Foreign Minister Vijitha Herath and corporate leaders associated with the 'Rebuilding Sri Lanka Fund' to discuss ongoing assistance and long-term rehabilitation. India's multifaceted support underscores its commitment to stand with Sri Lanka in relief, recovery, and reconstruction during this challenging period.

Government Strategy Drives Stronger Economic Growth

Sitharaman outlined tax exemptions, GST cuts, business reforms, and employment, infrastructure, and credit schemes boosting urban and rural consumption

NEW DELHI

The Indian government's multi-pronged approach is boosting consumption and driving robust economic growth, Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman told Parliament on Monday. The strategy combines demand-supporting measures, income-enhancing policies, and structural reforms, she explained, helping GDP growth and household incomes across the country.

Sitharaman highlighted several key policy measures. These include a new income tax exemption for annual earnings up to Rs 12 lakh, recent GST rate cuts, improved ease of doing business, employment and skilling programs, infrastructure development, and expanded access to credit through schemes like MUDRA and PMSVANidhi. Together, these initiatives aim to strengthen both urban and rural consumption.

Urban areas are benefiting from livelihood programs, tax reliefs, and wider digital payment access. Rural regions, meanwhile, are supported through flagship programs such as PM-KISAN, the Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Scheme, PM Awas Yojana (Gramin), agricultural productivity missions, and Self Help Group-based livelihood initiatives. These efforts are helping to increase incomes and broaden consumption across the country.

The Finance Minister emphasized that stronger consumption demand not only supports household incomes but also encourages private investment and reinforces overall economic growth. Data from the National Statistics Office shows that the share of Private Final Consumption Expenditure in GDP rose from 62.2 per cent in Q2 of 2024-25 to 62.5 per cent in Q2 of 2025-26. Growth in constant price terms also improved from 6.4 per cent to 7.9 per cent.

GDP at constant prices is estimated to have grown 8.2 per cent in Q2 of 2025-26, compared with 5.6 per cent in the same period last year and 7.8 per cent in Q1 of 2025-26, reflecting an accelerating growth momentum, Sitharaman noted.

India's Agriculture Thrives with New Farming Boost

NEW DELHI

India's agriculture sector has witnessed remarkable growth under Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Union Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan said on Monday. Speaking at the Agribusiness Summit 2025, Chouhan highlighted a 44 per cent rise in sugarcane production since 2014, attributing the success to modern farming methods and government initiatives.

The minister emphasized supporting small farmers, especially those with less than one hectare of land, through integrated farming models. He encouraged diversification into fish and cattle farming, value addition of crops, and careful use of fertilizers to protect the soil for future generations. Bio-input regulations have been tightened, reducing the number of approved producers from 30,000 to 8,000, ensuring quality and safety.

Ramesh Chand of NITI Aayog noted the need to improve both production and productivity. Comparing India with China, he said Chinese farmers act as innovators and careful land managers, achieving higher yields with precise farming techniques. India could adopt similar strategies to improve output while minimizing negative effects of fertilizer use.

RG Agarwal, PHDCCI agribusiness committee chair, said farmers have always served the nation, and now it is time to support them with

The minister promoted supporting small farmers via integrated farming, diversification into fish and cattle, crop value addition, prudent fertilizer use, and stricter bio-input regulations ensuring quality and safety better technology, knowledge, and resources to increase income and efficiency.

Rahul Dhanuka, managing director of Dhanuka Agritech, highlighted India's low usage of agricultural medicines compared to global standards, though misuse persists in some regions.

The summit focused on "Tripling Agricultural GDP Using New Technology and Quality Inputs," bringing together policymakers, farmers, and industry leaders to explore innovative solutions. Experts emphasized that modern tools, smart farming, and proper support can transform agriculture, making it more productive, sustainable, and profitable for Indian farmers.

India Targets Big Boost in Oilseed Output by 2031

NEW DELHI

The government has set an ambitious goal to raise India's oilseed production to 69.7 million tonnes by 2030–31, aiming to strengthen the country's self-reliance in edible oils.

Despite being one of the world's largest producers of oilseeds, India still depends heavily on imports, meeting only 44 per cent of its domestic edible oil demand through local production. While import dependence has declined from 63.2 per cent in 2015–16 to 56.25 per cent in 2023–24, rising consumption continues to widen the gap.

A NITI Aayog report from August 2024 highlighted India's global leadership in producing rice bran oil, castor seed, safflower, sesame, and niger. Yet, the government believes that achieving Atmanirbharta in edible oils requires major changes in cultivation practices, seed quality, and processing capacity. To address this, the National Mission on Edible Oils (NMEO) was launched to strengthen the oilseed ecosystem and boost domestic production.

Intermediaries submit recommendations via secure APIs or files; PaRRVA validates them, calculates 50 indicators, and provides investor-accessible reports

SEBI Launches PaRRVA to Boost Market Transparency

NEW DELHI

India's Securities and Exchange Board (SEBI) has launched a new platform called PaRRVA — the Past Risk and Return Verification Agency — aimed at giving investors clear, trustworthy information about the performance of financial intermediaries. SEBI Chairperson Tuhin Kanta Pandey said the initiative will help both investors and regulated entities by offering credible, independently verified performance data.

PaRRVA is being introduced as a pilot and is described as the first global system designed to verify risk-return metrics for investment advisors, research analysts, and trading members. Pandey said transparency is the foundation of healthy markets, and the new platform strengthens SEBI's commitment to fairness and order in India's financial system. According to him, PaRRVA will bring greater clarity to performance claims and help investors make more confident decisions.

National Stock Exchange (NSE) MD and CEO Ashishkumar Chauhan called the initiative an important step toward improving standardisation and trust. NSE is supporting the effort by hosting the PaRRVA Data Centre, which uses verified market data to check the accuracy of risk and return numbers.

Intermediaries can upload their recommendations through secure APIs or files, after which PaRRVA validates them and produces detailed performance metrics. Nearly 50 different indicators are calculated using transaction data from exchanges and clearing corporations. These reports can be accessed by investors either through a QR code or via the official PaRRVA website.

The platform also helps stop misleading claims by preventing selective presentation of returns and ensuring all data is backed by proper disclosures. Its secure system, combined with T+1 verification for portfolios and end-of-day checks for intraday strategies, aims to offer both speed and accuracy.

Small Firms Drive Big MSME Credit Growth

NEW DELHI

India's micro, small, and medium enterprises (MSMEs) saw their credit exposure rise 17.8% to Rs 43.3 lakh crore by September, mainly driven by small firms, a CRIF High Mark report said. Active loans grew 5.7% year-on-year to 192.9 lakh, while portfolio quality improved with low risk levels. Small businesses now hold 39.5% of exposure, medium firms 23.1%, and micro units still dominate loan numbers at 86.4%. PSU banks lead micro lending, private banks back small and medium firms, while NBFCs expand. Maharashtra tops with Rs 7 lakh crore in loans.

TRAI Extends Deadline for Interconnection Feedback

NEW DELHI

The Telecom Regulatory Authority of India (TRAI) has extended the deadlines for submitting comments and counter-comments on its latest consultation paper reviewing interconnection regulations, the Ministry of Communications announced on Monday.

The consultation paper, released on November 10, initially set December 8 as the last date for comments and December 22 for counter-comments. Following multiple requests from industry bodies and stakeholders for more time to study the proposals, TRAI has now extended the deadline for written comments to December 15 and for counter-comments to December 29.

"The extension was granted in response to requests from industry associations and stakeholders seeking more time to prepare their submissions," the ministry said. Stakeholders are invited to submit their inputs electronically to Sameer Gupta, Advisor (Networks, Spectrum and Licensing-I). The consultation aims to update interconnection regulations to match the evolving telecom technologies and market needs.

Meanwhile, TRAI has continued its crackdown on spam and fraud in the telecom sector. Over the past year, the regulator disconnected more than 21 lakh mobile numbers and blacklisted around one lakh entities based on citizen complaints. TRAI has urged people to continue reporting spam through the TRAI DND App to prevent misuse at the source, cautioning that simply blocking unwanted numbers on personal phones is not enough.

These steps reflect TRAI's ongoing efforts to protect consumers while ensuring that India's telecom sector keeps pace with technological and market developments.

ED Cracks Down On Crypto Frauds Nationwide

NEW DELHI

The Enforcement Directorate (ED) has taken strong action against cryptocurrency frauds, attaching, seizing, and freezing proceeds of crime worth Rs 4,189.89 crore, arresting 29 people, and filing 22 prosecution complaints, Parliament was informed on Monday. One accused has also been declared a fugitive economic offender.

Union Minister of State for Finance, Pankaj Chaudhary, said that virtual digital assets (VDAs) are now covered under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA), making virtual asset service providers (VASPs) reporting entities. They are required to submit transaction reports to the Financial Intelligence Unit (FIU-IND), which are analyzed and shared with law enforcement agencies for further action.

Chaudhary added that laws like the Prohibition of Benami Property Transactions Act and the Black Money Act apply to VDAs, ensuring stricter oversight. The Central Board of Direct Taxes (CBDT) has also detected multiple cases of tax evasion linked to cryptocurrencies. During recent search and seizure operations, undisclosed income from VDA transactions worth Rs 888.82 crore was identified. Under the CBDT's NUDGE campaign, over 44,000 taxpayers received notices for failing to report VDA transactions in their income tax returns.

Auto Sales Hold Steady as Nov Demand Improves

NEW DELHI

India's auto retail industry posted steady growth in November, with overall sales rising 2.14 per cent year-on-year to 33.01 lakh units, according to new figures from the Federation of Automobile Dealers Associations (FADA). The industry managed to maintain momentum even after the festive season, helped by price cuts following the GST 2.0 rollout that continued to draw buyers to showrooms.

Passenger vehicles performed well, supported by better availability of popular models and rising demand for compact SUVs. Inventory levels for this segment eased to 44–46 days, compared with 53–55 days in October, signalling improving customer interest. Maruti Suzuki held its leading position with a 39.4 per cent market share, followed by Mahindra at 13.7 per cent and Tata Motors at 13.2 per cent.

However, the two-wheeler segment struggled, with monthly sales dropping 19.16 per cent to 25.46 lakh units. Year-on-year, the decline was 3.10 per cent. FADA President C. S. Vigneshwar said the fall must be seen in context, as festive shopping in October pulled demand forward. He added that delayed crop payments and uneven supply of in-demand models also hurt sales, though customer visits remained strong due to positive sentiment from GST changes and the ongoing marriage season.

Three-wheelers continued to shine, rising 31.58 per cent month-on-month to 1.33 lakh units. The segment also grew 23.67 per cent year-on-year, fuelled largely by higher demand for e-rickshaws and e-carts. Commercial vehicle sales showed a mixed trend, with light and medium categories weakening while heavy commercial vehicles rose 3.28 per cent to 28,659 units.

Analysts said November's overall performance showed resilience, as solid passenger vehicle and three-wheeler sales helped balance weakness in two-wheelers and parts of the commercial vehicle segment.

INDIGO STOCK PLUNGE

IndiGo's Market Value Crashes amid Flight Turmoil

MUMBAI

InterGlobe Aviation, the parent company of IndiGo, suffered a sharp fall in market value on Monday as the airline continued to face one of the worst operational breakdowns in India's aviation sector. The company's stock plunged 10 per cent to ₹4,842 — its steepest drop since February 2022 — marking its seventh straight day of losses. In just six trading sessions, the stock has slipped 16.4 per cent, erasing nearly ₹37,000 crore in market capitalisation.

The sell-off grew more intense as investors reacted to the airline's widespread cancellations and delays linked to its shift to new flight duty time limitation norms. Analysts say the ongoing chaos is hurting hopes of an earnings rebound that many expected in the coming quarter. Brokerage Investec kept its 'Sell' rating on InterGlobe Aviation, cutting expectations for a recovery after a weak first half of FY26 and setting a price target of ₹4,040.

The crisis deepened when IndiGo struggled to meet the regulator's deadline for adopting the revised duty-time rules. The carrier, along with another airline, requested more time on December 7 due to operational strain at several major airports. Although the regulator granted a limited extension until 6 p.m. on December 8, it firmly stated that no further relief would be given.

IndiGo said its operations are gradually improving and that its schedule should stabilise by December 10. On Sunday, it operated more than 1,650 flights, an increase from 1,500 the previous day, and its on-time performance rose to 75 per cent from 30 per cent. The airline also said refunds and baggage services are working at full capacity.

To manage the crisis, IndiGo has set up a high-level Crisis Management Group made up of Chairman Vikram Singh Mehta, board members Gregg Saretsky, Mike Whitaker and Amitabh Kant, and CEO Pieter Elbers. Their task is to restore normal operations and address the spike in delays and cancellations.

Presidential and Prime Ministerial Aircraft of the World's Most Powerful Nations

The aircraft used by heads of state and government serve as powerful symbols of national prestige, technological capability, and diplomatic reach. These flying command centers are far more than luxury transportation, they represent mobile offices, secure communication hubs, and instruments of soft power projection. For the leaders of the world's most influential nations, their official aircraft embody both practical necessity and national identity. This article examines the presidential and prime ministerial planes of five of the most powerful countries: the United States, China, Russia, the United Kingdom, and France.

United States: Air Force One

The term Air Force One technically refers to any United States Air Force aircraft carrying the President, but it has become synonymous with the two modified Boeing 747-200B aircraft that serve as the primary presidential transports. These iconic blue and white planes, with tail numbers 28000 and 29000, have been in service since 1990 and represent perhaps the most recognizable government aircraft in the world.

The current Air Force One fleet operates as far more than simple transportation. Each aircraft functions as a flying White House, equipped with sophisticated communication systems that allow the President to conduct government business and maintain command authority anywhere in the world. The planes feature extensive electronic countermeasures to protect against missile attacks, hardened electronics to withstand electromagnetic pulses, and the ability to refuel in mid-air, giving them virtually unlimited range.

The interior of Air Force One spans 4,000 square feet across three levels, configured to accommodate the President, senior advisors, Secret Service agents, traveling staff, and members of the press corps. The presidential suite includes a private office, conference room, and sleeping quarters. The aircraft also contains a medical suite staffed by a doctor and equipped to perform emergency surgery if necessary. Secure communication systems enable encrypted satellite phone calls and video conferencing, ensuring the President can respond to any crisis while airborne.

The distinctive livery—a sophisticated powder blue and white color scheme with United States of America emblazoned along the fuselage—was designed during the Kennedy administration and has remained largely unchanged, becoming an enduring symbol of American power. However, the aging 747-200B fleet is scheduled for replacement. The U.S.

Air Force has ordered two modified Boeing 747-8 aircraft to serve as the next generation of Air Force One, expected to enter service later this decade. These new planes will feature enhanced security systems, improved fuel efficiency, and updated technology while maintaining the visual elements that make Air Force One instantly recognizable worldwide.

China: Air China Boeing 747-8

China's President travels aboard specially configured Air China aircraft, with the primary plane being a Boeing 747-8, one of the newest and most advanced variants of the iconic jumbo jet. The Chinese leadership has historically maintained a more understated approach to presidential aviation compared to Western counterparts, though this has evolved as China's global influence has expanded.

The Chinese presidential aircraft carries the standard Air China livery with subtle modifications to designate its special status. Unlike Air Force One's distinctive custom paint scheme, the Chinese approach emphasizes continuity with the national carrier's commercial fleet, reflecting a different philosophy about projecting state power.

Nevertheless, the interior modifications are extensive and sophisticated.

The Boeing 747-8 used by Chinese leadership features multiple conference rooms, private quarters for the President, and advanced secure communication systems comparable to those found on Air Force One. The aircraft allows Chinese leaders to conduct sensitive diplomatic negotiations and maintain contact with Beijing during extended international trips. Given China's expanding Belt and Road Initiative and increasing diplomatic engagements across Asia, Africa, and beyond, the presidential aircraft has become an essential tool for projecting Chinese influence globally.

China has also developed domestic aircraft capabilities through the Commercial Aircraft Corporation of China (COMAC), which has produced the C919 narrow-body jet.

While presidential transport currently relies on Boeing aircraft, China's long-term aviation strategy suggests future leaders may transition to domestically produced planes, further asserting technological independence and national pride.

Russia: The Presidential Aircraft Fleet

Russia's presidential aviation operates under a unique structure, with multiple aircraft designated for presidential use rather than a single iconic plane. The primary aircraft is an Ilyushin Il-96-300PU, a modified version of Russia's domestically produced wide-body airliner. This choice reflects Russia's emphasis on utilizing indigenous aircraft technology and maintaining independence from Western manufacturers.

The Il-96-300PU entered service in the mid-1990s and represents a significant upgrade from previous Soviet-era presidential aircraft. The plane features four powerful jet engines, giving it impressive range and reliability for transcontinental flights.

Extensive modifications transform the standard airliner into a flying command center suitable for the Russian President. The interior includes a presidential office and bedroom, conference facilities, and secure communication equipment that maintains encrypted connections with Moscow.

The Russian presidential fleet also includes several other aircraft types, including additional Il-96 variants and smaller business jets for shorter trips or visits to airports that cannot accommodate larger aircraft. This flexible approach allows Russian leadership to adapt transportation to mission requirements while maintaining domestic manufacturing support.

Security features on Russian presidential aircraft are highly classified, but aviation experts believe they include sophisticated electronic warfare systems, missile defense capabilities, and hardened communications equipment. The aircraft's design emphasizes self-sufficiency and the ability to operate independently of foreign infrastructure, consistent with Russia's strategic doctrine of maintaining operational autonomy.

Russia has also invested in developing the Aurus Kortezh aircraft project, intended to create an entirely Russian-made presidential transport system. This ambitious program aims to produce both ground vehicles and aircraft using exclusively domestic components, further reducing reliance on foreign technology. While still in development, this initiative underscores Russia's commitment to technological sovereignty in presidential transportation.

France: Airbus A330-200 and A340-200

France operates two primary presidential aircraft under the control of ETEC 00.060, a special flight squadron of the French Air Force. The fleet includes an Airbus A330-200 and an older Airbus A340-200, both extensively modified for presidential use. This choice emphasizes European aerospace manufacturing, as Airbus is a European consortium with significant French involvement.

The French presidential aircraft carry livery featuring the French tricolor and reflect France's status as a major diplomatic power with significant global interests, particularly in Africa and the Middle East. French presidents frequently travel to former French colonies and territories, as well as to international summits where France plays a leading role in European Union decision-making.

The primary Airbus A330-200 features luxurious accommodations befitting French aesthetic sensibilities. The interior includes a presidential apartment with bedroom and office space, multiple conference rooms for diplomatic meetings, and sections for staff, security, and journalists. The design balances functionality with elegance, incorporating French design elements and high-quality materials that reflect national cultural identity.

Secure communication systems aboard French presidential aircraft enable constant contact with Paris and allow the president to manage both domestic affairs and France's extensive international commitments. The aircraft support France's role as a permanent member of the United Nations Security Council and a nuclear power, requiring robust command and control capabilities even when leadership is traveling.

France maintains its presidential aircraft as part of a broader fleet of government planes used by various ministers and officials, creating an efficient system that shares maintenance, crew, and infrastructure costs. This integrated approach maximizes operational efficiency while ensuring appropriate transportation is available for different levels of government activity.

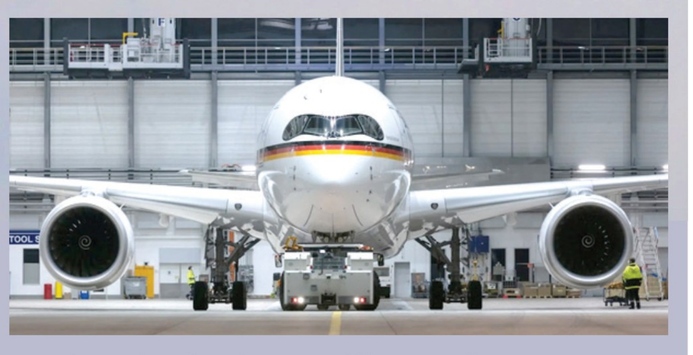
United Kingdom: Royal Air Force Voyager

The United Kingdom takes a distinctly different approach to government aviation. Rather than maintaining dedicated presidential aircraft, British Prime Ministers and members of the Royal Family travel aboard military transport aircraft that also serve operational roles. The primary plane is a Royal Air Force Airbus A330 Voyager, designated ZZ336, which functions as both a VIP transport and an aerial refueling tanker.

This dual-purpose design reflects British pragmatism and fiscal conservatism regarding government spending. The Voyager entered service in its VIP configuration in 2016, featuring a distinctive Union Jack tail design that garnered both praise and criticism. The livery modification cost approximately £900,000, with supporters arguing it enhanced Britain's global image while critics questioned the expense.

The interior of the VIP Voyager includes a private cabin for the Prime Minister or senior royals, business class seating for staff and officials, and economy seating for security personnel and journalists. While less opulent than some foreign counterparts, the aircraft provides comfortable and secure transportation for extended international trips. Crucially, the Voyager can be quickly reconfigured to resume its military refuelling role when not needed for VIP transport, maximizing the aircraft's utility and justifying its cost to taxpayers.

The British approach contrasts sharply with the dedicated presidential fleets of the United States, Russia, and China. This reflects both budgetary considerations and a cultural preference for understated governance. British Prime Ministers traditionally avoid ostentatious displays of power, and the multi-role Voyager aligns with this philosophy while still providing secure, reliable transportation for diplomatic missions and state visits. Advanced secure communication systems aboard the Voyager enable the Prime Minister to remain in constant contact with Whitehall and respond to domestic or international crises while traveling. The aircraft also features enhanced security measures, though specific details remain classified for operational security reasons.



The aircraft used by presidents and prime ministers of powerful nations reveal much about each country's priorities, values, and approach to governance. The United States maintains the most iconic and capable presidential aircraft in Air Force One, emphasizing American technological leadership and global reach. China's transition to advanced Boeing aircraft reflects its growing international presence, while plans for domestic alternatives underscore its drive toward technological independence. Russia's reliance on indigenous Ilyushin aircraft demonstrates commitment to self-sufficiency and maintaining control over critical infrastructure. The United Kingdom's multi-role approach balances capability with fiscal responsibility, avoiding dedicated vanity projects in favor of practical solutions. France's selection of European Airbus aircraft affirms its commitment to European manufacturing while providing elegant, capable transportation for its diplomatic missions.

These flying command centers serve as more than transportation—they function as mobile seats of government power, enabling leaders to maintain authority and respond to crises regardless of location. As aviation technology advances and geopolitical dynamics evolve, presidential and prime ministerial aircraft will continue adapting, remaining essential tools of modern governance and international diplomacy.

BCCI Clarifies Kohli, Rohit Were Not Forced To Play Vijay Trophy

BCCI denies nudging Kohli, Rohit; Confirms voluntary Vijay Hazare participation

MUMBAI

The BCCI has addressed long-running rumours regarding Virat Kohli and Rohit Sharma's participation in the upcoming Vijay Hazare Trophy, clarifying that the board did not pressure either of the seniors to join the domestic competition. With continuous speculation about their ODI futures and prospects for the 2027 World Cup, their decision to play the domestic 50-over tournament had sparked debate about whether it was self-motivated or a directive from the board. Both players have been in exceptional form recently, with Rohit claiming the Player of the Series award against Australia and Kohli earning the same accolade versus South Africa.

Reports earlier in the year suggested that centrally contracted players would be pushed to feature in domestic tournaments, especially after the Border-Gavaskar Trophy defeat prompted the BCCI to stress domestic participation. However, according to RevSportz, a senior BCCI official dismissed claims that the board asked the duo to play Vijay Hazare. "They have decided, it's their decision," the official stated, putting speculation to rest. Kohli had already informed the Delhi and District Cricket Association of his availability nearly three weeks ago, confirmed by DDCA President Rohan Jaitley. Rohit Sharma is also expected to represent Mumbai in the competition beginning December 24. Their decision echoes an earlier move this year when both played a Ranji Trophy match before retiring from Test cricket, underscoring their commitment to staying match-ready.

Both veterans have produced impressive numbers in recent months. Kohli amassed 302 runs, including two centuries, in the South Africa series, while Rohit contributed 146 runs with two fifties. In the preceding Australia series, each delivered crucial innings despite early setbacks. Head coach Gautam Gambhir acknowledged their experience but refrained from confirming their 2027 World Cup involvement, stressing the importance of present performance and opportunities for younger players.

Kohli, Rohit central to India's 2027 WC roadmap: Ex-selector

MUMBAI

Former BCCI selector urges India to build 2027 World Cup core around seniors

A former national selector has called for Virat Kohli and Rohit Sharma to be firmly positioned at the heart of India's 2027 World Cup plans, emphasizing the need for stability and clarity as the team prepares for the tournament in South Africa. Both stalwarts recently returned to international cricket during India's tours of Australia and South Africa, producing impactful performances that strengthened the argument for their continued involvement in ODIs. Their combined tally of over 700 runs in the last six matches, including three centuries and five half-centuries, has reminded the cricketing circle of their value in high-pressure contests.

Despite their form, questions linger due to their age and fitness profiles, with head coach Gautam Gambhir reportedly prioritizing a present-focused approach rather than planning too far ahead. With roughly 22 months left before the ICC event, the uncertainty surrounding their long-term roles has become a topic of debate. The two veterans are now set to appear in the Vijay Hazare Trophy and the New Zealand ODI series starting January 2026, both crucial phases in determining their World Cup futures.

Former selector Devang Gandhi believes India must anchor their preparations around Kohli and Sharma, advocating for a defined pool of 20 players leading up to the mega event. Gandhi warned against repeating past mistakes—such as the unsettled No. 4 spot ahead of the 2019 World Cup and the forced inclusion of an out-of-form Suryakumar Yadav during the 2023 campaign—which left India exposed in crunch situations.

Gandhi also highlighted India's persistent middle-order instability. While Shubman Gill and KL Rahul have been reliable, others like Shreyas Iyer, Axar Patel, Ruturaj Gaikwad, and Yashasvi Jaiswal continue to compete for permanent roles. With additional contenders like Rishabh Pant and Washington Sundar in the mix, India must identify a stable XI and backups to avoid recurring lapses in ICC tournaments.

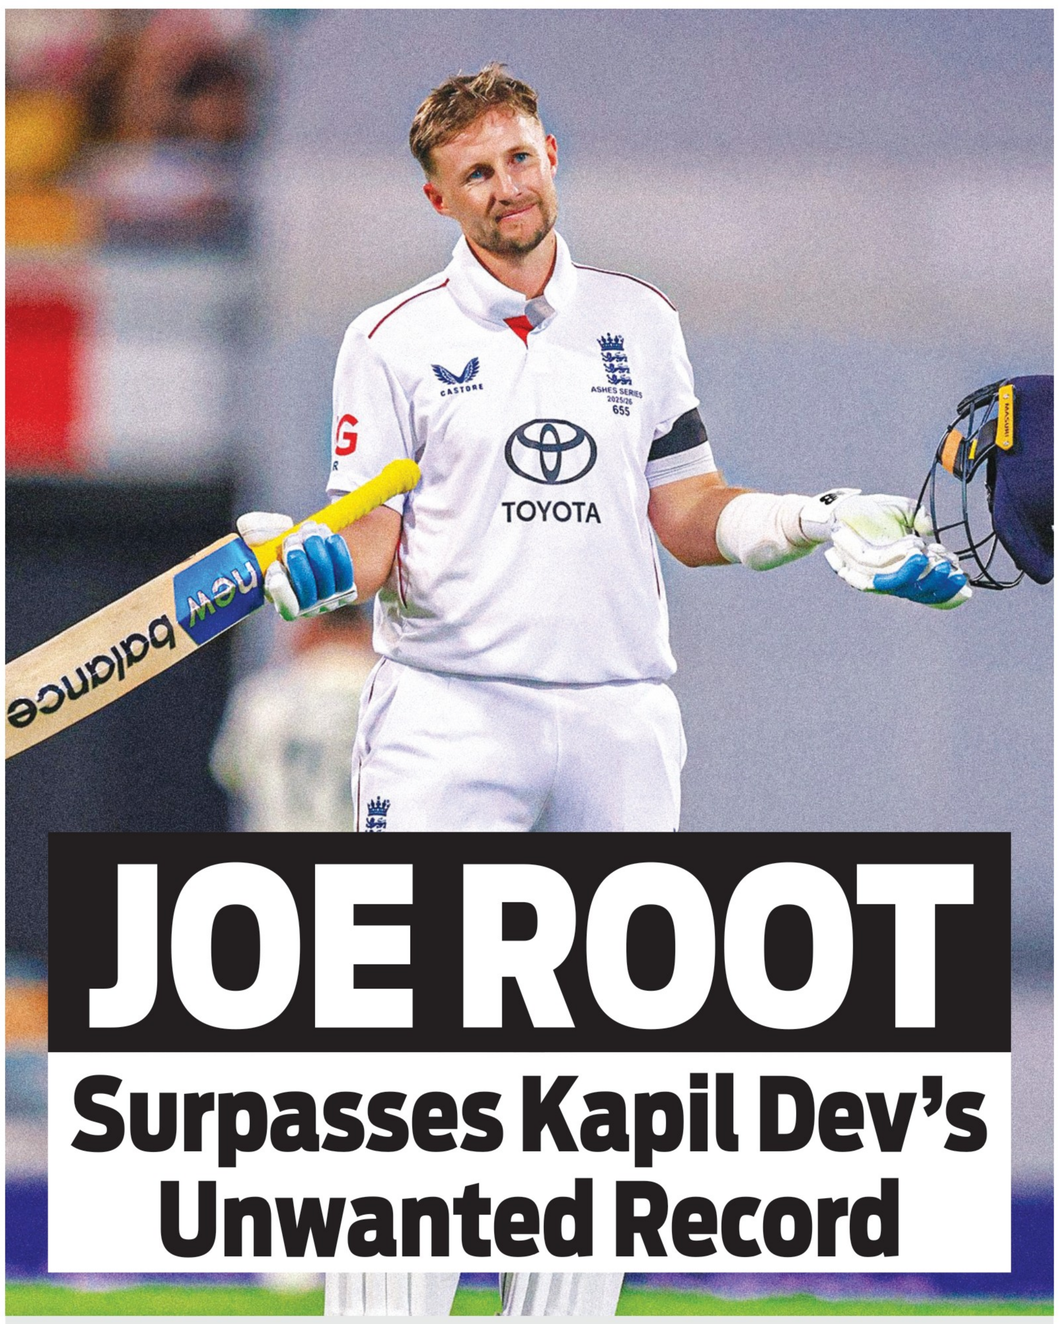
Germany Outclass India 5–1 to Reach Men's Junior WC Final

CHENNAI

Germany produced a dominant display to defeat India 5–1 in the semifinals of the FIH Men's Junior World Cup, silencing a packed Mayor Radhakrishnan Stadium that had come out in full voice for the hosts. The clash between the world's top two junior teams promised drama, but the defending champions quickly took control, setting up a final against Spain.

Germany struck early, with Lukas Kossel converting a penalty stroke in the 14th minute, followed by Titus Wex's strike a minute later. India struggled to cope with Germany's pace, pressing, and precise passing. Seconds before halftime, Kossel added his second from a penalty-corner routine, giving Germany a 3–0 lead. The second half offered little respite, as Jonas von Gersum and Ben Habach extended the lead to 5–0, with India's lone goal coming from Anmol Ekka in the 50th minute.

Earlier, Spain reached their first Junior World Cup final with a 2–1 victory over Argentina, thanks to Albert Serrahima's decisive 56th-minute goal. In classification matches, Belgium defeated France 3–2, while the Netherlands, led by Casper van der Veen's hat-trick, beat New Zealand 6–3. India will face Argentina for third place on December 10.



JOE ROOT Surpasses Kapil Dev's Unwanted Record

BRISBANE

England's premier batter Joe Root has crossed an unfortunate milestone, breaking a 34-year-old record previously held by India's iconic all-rounder Kapil Dev. With England's eight-wicket loss to Australia at the Gabba, Root completed his 16th Test in Australia without a single victory, surpassing Kapil's tally of 15 winless Tests in Pakistan. The unwanted record highlights Root's long-standing struggles on Australian soil despite his stature as one of the game's finest modern batters.

He now stands alone for the most matches played in a country without a win. Kapil's own barren run in Pakistan brought 548 runs at 26.10 and 44 wickets at 40.02. Yet Root's latest performance was one of England's few positives, as he struck a superb maiden Test century in Australia.

England, however, were comprehensively outclassed. Their batting faltered in both innings through poor shot selection and technical lapses, while the bowlers lacked control, especially under the lights with the pink ball. Five dropped catches allowed Australia to post 511 and take command.

A brief revival from Ben Stokes and Will Jacks offered hope, but Michael Neser's career-best 5 for 42 ended the fightback. Steve Smith and Jake Weatherald then guided Australia home comfortably.

ICC faces turmoil as JioStar seeks exit from billion-dollar media rights deal

NEW DELHI

The International Cricket Council is facing a major commercial setback just months before the 2026 T20 World Cup in India. Reliance-owned JioStar has formally informed the ICC of its intention to exit its multi-year media rights agreement, despite two years remaining in the current cycle. Reports suggest the broadcaster's decision stems from mounting financial losses, plunging global cricket's most valuable media market into uncertainty ahead of a marquee event. Following JioStar's notice, the ICC has reopened the tender process for the 2026–29 India rights, seeking close to $2.4 billion — a significant drop from the $3 billion valuation of the 2024–27 cycle, which guaranteed at least one major men's event annually. Yet even at the reduced price, major players such as Sony Pictures Networks India, Netflix, and Amazon Prime Video have shown little interest, citing high costs and the weakening economics of India's sports broadcasting sector. If no new broadcaster steps forward, JioStar will still be obligated to honour its contract through 2027. JioStar's financial strain is evident in filings showing provisions for sports-related losses doubling to ₹25,760 crore in 2024–25, much of it linked to Star India's earlier ₹12,319-crore provisioning for ICC rights. Meanwhile, the ICC posted a $474 million surplus in 2024, underscoring cricket's profitability even as broadcasters bleed. Adding to JioStar's woes is the government's ban on real-money gaming, once the sport's biggest advertising category, creating an estimated ₹7,000-crore revenue gap. With budgets tightening and major platforms hesitant, the ICC now confronts one of its most challenging negotiations in years.

Casper van der Veen Shines at Junior WC

CHENNAI

Casper van der Veen, the towering Dutch midfielder and captain, is enjoying one of his finest tournaments at the FIH Men's Junior World Cup despite collective disappointment. The 21-year-old has been among the top scorers, netting nine field goals in five matches, yet the sting of another missed semifinal weighs on him. The Netherlands' narrow 0-1 quarterfinal loss to Argentina — their third straight failure to reach the top four — was particularly tough for van der Veen, now in his third Junior World Cup.

He responded with a hat-trick, his second of the event, in a 6-3 win over New Zealand in the 5–8 classification match, with a powerful airborne strike his favourite. Hailing from Heemstede, van der Veen followed his elder brother into hockey and now cherishes making his family proud. In 2025, he debuted for the senior Dutch team in the FIH Pro League, scoring his first international goal — a milestone he hopes to build on, especially in India's electrifying atmosphere.

FC Goa Clinch Super Cup Again, Secure AFC Champions League 2 Berth

MARGAO

FC Goa scripted history at the Jawaharlal Nehru Stadium in Margao, clinching the Super Cup title for a record third time after a dramatic 6–5 victory over East Bengal FC in a sudden-death penalty shootout. With the triumph, the Gaurs not only defended their crown — becoming the first club ever to do so — but also sealed their qualification for next season's AFC Champions League 2.

The highly anticipated final between two of India's most storied sides lived up to its billing, though goals proved elusive in regular and extra time. Both teams created moments of promise, but neither could break the deadlock across 120 minutes, setting up a tense tie-breaker to decide the champion.

The initial round of penalties ended 4–4, with both sides displaying nerves of steel under immense pressure. In sudden death, FC Goa edged ahead as Edu Bedia Tavora calmly slotted home, keeping his side alive after Udanta Singh had converted for East Bengal moments earlier. In the decisive moment, East Bengal substitute P V Vishnu fired wide, allowing the Gaurs to celebrate yet another historic achievement. Earlier, East Bengal's Ahadad had found the net, but the Kolkata giants could not maintain their composure when it mattered most.

The win marks another milestone for head coach Manolo Marquez, who continues to elevate FC Goa's stature in Indian football. His squad's composure, depth, and tactical discipline once again proved decisive in a tournament featuring top clubs from both the Indian Super League and I-League.

Only a day after the triumph, the significance of FC Goa's achievement resonated across Indian football — a successful title defence, a record third Super Cup trophy, and a coveted return to continental competition.

Højlund Brace Lifts Napoli, Spoils Spalletti Return

MILAN

Rasmus Højlund struck twice as Napoli defeated Juventus 2-1 on a dramatic night that marked Luciano Spalletti's first return to the club he guided to the Scudetto in 2023. The victory sent Napoli back to the top of Serie A, one point clear of Inter Milan and three ahead of AC Milan. The match was steeped in narrative, with Spalletti facing Napoli as an opposition coach for the first time, while Napoli manager Antonio Conte also took on his former club in a compelling tactical duel. Napoli made an electric start, breaking through within seven minutes. David Neres sliced through Juventus' right flank before sliding a precise pass to Højlund, who tapped in from close range. The hosts continued to dominate the early exchanges, but Juventus struck back in the 59th minute. A swift counterattack saw Kenan Yıldız exchange passes with Weston McKennie before finishing with a crisp angled strike into the bottom corner.

The decisive moment came in the 78th minute, and McKennie was again involved—this time unintentionally. Attempting to clear a cross aimed at Neres, his weak defensive header dropped perfectly for Højlund, who nodded home from four yards to secure the win and his brace.

Elsewhere, Roma's title ambitions suffered a setback with a 1-0 loss at Cagliari. Reduced to 10 men after Zeki Çelik's red card for denying a clear scoring opportunity, Roma held firm until the 82nd minute when Gianluca Gaetano finished from close range. Roma remain fourth but slipped four points behind leaders Napoli.

Bologna missed an opportunity to close the gap on Roma, drawing 1-1 with Lazio in a match featuring goals from Danes Gustav Isaksen and Jens Odgaard. Lazio finished with 10 men after Mario Gila was sent off for dissent. Earlier, Cremonese secured a 2-0 win over Lecce.

Rooney Slams Salah, Urges Striker to Leave Liverpool

Wayne Rooney Accuses Salah of Damaging Liverpool's Legacy

LONDON

Wayne Rooney, former Manchester United and England legend, has strongly criticised Mohamed Salah for publicly attacking Liverpool, accusing the Egyptian forward of tarnishing his own legacy at the club.

The saga escalated after Salah, frustrated with sitting out three consecutive matches, claimed he had been "thrown under the bus" by Liverpool manager Arne Slot following a 3-3 draw against Leeds United. The comments came amid a difficult 2025-26 campaign for the Premier League defending champions, currently ninth with 23 points from 15 games.

Rooney said, "Why would you come out and say that? Salah has been incredible for Liverpool. But then you can't flip it and say what he said. It was disrespectful to his teammates, to his manager, to the fans." The 33-year-old English star emphasised that while players must earn their place weekly, Salah's remarks were damaging, particularly given Liverpool's current struggles.

Rooney added that Salah should either reconcile with Slot or consider leaving the club. "He's either got to speak to the manager, put something out, and try to put it right. Or leave the football club. It needs to be sorted quickly," Rooney said.

The former striker also urged Liverpool boss Slot to assert his authority by benching Salah for the upcoming Champions League fixture against Inter Milan. Rooney stressed that only Salah's improved performances could repair his reputation, pointing out the striker's current struggles with just four goals in 13 appearances this season.

Salah, a Liverpool icon with 250 goals in 420 appearances since 2017, is set to leave for the Africa Cup of Nations on December 15, potentially missing at least a month of club action. Rooney warned that Salah would likely regret the timing and tone of his public criticism if he does not respond positively on the field.

Rooney concluded, "Only he can help him get out of this situation by playing better! Rather than looking internally, he's looking for anything to put the blame on."

D Gukesh Eyes World No. 1 Spot, Confident Against Magnus Carlsen

CHENNAI

Indian chess prodigy D Gukesh has set his sights on ending Magnus Carlsen's record 14-year reign as the world No. 1. Currently ranked 10th in the FIDE standings, Gukesh is determined to rise to the top, confident that his efforts will eventually pay off.

The 21-year-old experienced a rollercoaster year in 2025. After his stunning victory over Ding Liren at the World Championships, Gukesh climbed to a career-best world No. 3 in February. However, inconsistent performances in subsequent tournaments saw him drop in the rankings, though he still produced memorable wins, including victories against Carlsen himself.

When asked on social media about his goal to become world No. 1, Gukesh replied, "I know I will give my absolute best for it, but whether or not it happens, I would be happy with the effort I put in." His focus remains on consistent growth, aiming for peak form at the 2026 Candidates tournament, a crucial stepping stone toward challenging Carlsen for the world crown.

Indian Grandmaster vows to give his best to dethrone reigning champion

Gukesh also expressed interest in facing compatriot R Praggnanandhaa at the next World Championships, provided he secures a spot by winning the Candidates 2026. Praggnanandhaa qualified for the event by clinching the FIDE Circuit 2025 title.

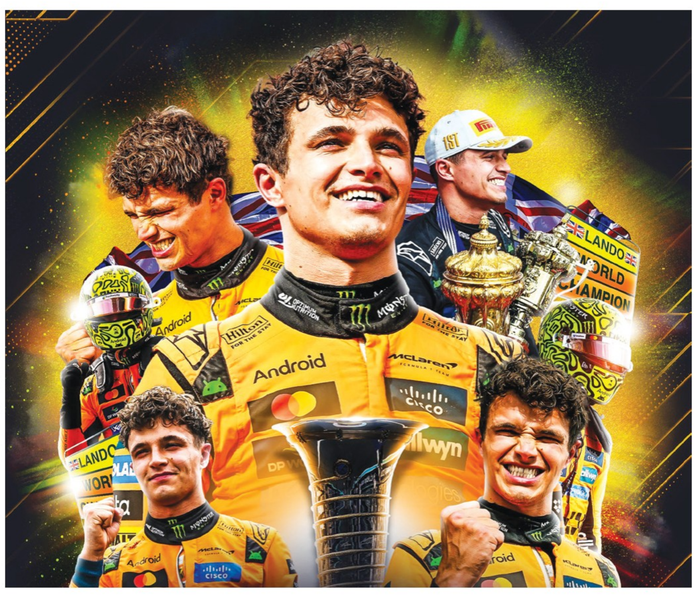
Meanwhile, the Candidates qualification process has sparked debate, particularly regarding Hikaru Nakamura. Despite being the next highest-rated player after Carlsen, Nakamura needed to meet FIDE's 40-game eligibility requirement. Carlsen criticized this rule, calling it unnecessary and restrictive for elite players, arguing that the Candidates should feature the strongest competitors regardless of minor tournament participation.

For Gukesh, these external controversies matter less than his own preparation. With his talent, strategic acumen, and youthful resilience, the Indian GM is positioning himself as a serious contender to rewrite chess history and challenge Carlsen's dominance on the global stage.

Norris overcomes years of criticism and expectation to seize glory

Lando Norris Silences Doubters, Clinches First Formula One World Title

ABU DHABI



Lando Norris completed a remarkable journey to his maiden Formula One world championship, finishing third in Abu Dhabi to clinch the crown and finally silence critics who questioned his mentality, maturity, and mettle. The 26-year-old Briton, world karting champion in 2013, is now the United Kingdom's 11th F1 title winner since the 1950s.

For years, detractors labelled Norris as mentally fragile, overly privileged, or too soft to challenge the sport's fiercest competitors.

He faced boos at rival circuits, endured online jibes—including the notorious "Lando No-wins" tag—and was accused of benefiting from McLaren favouritism over teammate Oscar Piastri. Yet his results spoke louder. After ending his win drought last season, Norris silenced the "pole-but-no-conversion" narrative, taking seven victories this year, five from pole position.

Norris's affluent background drew attention, but in a sport reliant on financial backing, his natural speed and relentless work ethic became undeniable. Early in his McLaren career, he helped mechanics pack down cars post-race, reflecting humility rather than entitlement. His close friendship with Max Verstappen, forged through virtual racing, occasionally sparked controversy, including clashes in Austria last year. Yet Norris's ability to reset and move forward became a hallmark of his rise.

McLaren CEO Zak Brown praised his "resilience, maturity and calmness." Open about mental health and authentic in a sport dominated by stoicism, Norris has emerged as a new-age role model: not a villain, not an enigma — simply a fiercely quick racer with heart on his sleeve and a world title to show for it.

MELBOURNE

Rasmus Neergaard-Petersen captured his maiden major professional title at the Australian Open, producing a nerveless par on the 72nd hole to deny Australian favourite Cameron Smith a long-awaited victory on home soil. Both players were locked at 15-under as they battled through a gripping back-nine duel, but Smith's missed par putt handed the Dane a defining career breakthrough.

Neergaard-Petersen, 26, appeared in trouble on the final hole after shanking his tee shot into thick rough, with a bunker blocking his path to the green. Smith, however, reached the putting surface in two and seemed to hold the advantage, facing a long, downhill putt. Displaying remarkable composure, Neergaard-Petersen executed a flawless up-and-down for par, while Smith missed a birdie and then agonisingly pushed a 1.5-metre putt that would have forced a playoff. The Dane closed with rounds of 67, 66, 66, and 70 to finish at 15-under 269. Smith, who began the day two shots back, surged with birdies on the 10th and 11th but bogeyed the 12th, allowing Neergaard-Petersen to draw level. From there, they matched each stroke until the decisive final green.

Dane holds nerve on final hole to deny hometown hero Smith

"It's hard… I'm really at a loss for words," Neergaard-Petersen said. "Even if you look calm, it was a storm inside all day. To get it up and down on the last… I don't know what to say."

Smith, seeking his first Australian Open title and first win since 2022, described the disappointment as bittersweet. Rory McIlroy, hampered by 11 bogeys over four days and a bizarre slip on a banana peel Saturday, finished tied 10th. Neergaard-Petersen earns a 2026 Masters exemption, while Michael Hollick, Adam Scott, and Si Woo Kim secured berths at the 2026 British Open at Royal Birkdale.

Neymar Secures Santos' Survival, Confirms Upcoming Knee Surgery

SAO PAULO

Neymar's Santos ensured its survival in Brazil's Serie A with a 3-0 win over Cruzeiro, while the 33-year-old star confirmed he will undergo surgery on his left knee. Playing its final league match of the season, Santos avoided what would have been the club's second relegation in history. The team was first relegated in 2023, nearly a year after the death of legendary Pelé, who made Santos a global football icon.

Neymar, who returned to Santos in January after struggling to recover from a torn ACL sustained in October 2023 during a World Cup qualifier against Uruguay, proved decisive in helping the club stay in the top flight. In the last three rounds, he scored a goal in a 3-0 win against Sport Recife, netted a hat trick in another 3-0 victory over Juventude, and provided key assists in Sunday's win against Cruzeiro.

Thaciano scored in the 26th and 28th minutes, and João Schmidt added a goal in the 60th minute, securing the victory at Vila Belmiro Stadium. Santos finished 12th in the league with 47 points, with Neymar having played 19 of the 38 rounds, scoring eight goals in total.

"I came for this, to try to help the best way I can. These have been tough weeks for me," Neymar said after the match. "I thank those who were with me to lift me up. If it weren't for them, I wouldn't have played these matches because of these injuries, this knee problem. I need to rest and then we will have this knee surgery."

Despite the upcoming procedure, Neymar remains hopeful about earning a spot in Brazil's final squad for the 2026 World Cup, although coach Carlo Ancelotti has yet to make selections since taking over in May.

Seattle's WC Pride Match spotlights gay rights despite anti-LGBTQ nations

SEATTLE

Seattle's 2026 World Cup Pride Match will spotlight inclusion in football as Egypt faces Iran, two countries where same-sex relationships are illegal. Scheduled for June 26, 2026—Pride weekend Friday—at Lumen Field, the game has been formally designated the city's "Pride Match" by local organisers.

The pairing, drawn for Group G, is politically charged. In Iran, convictions for same-sex activity can carry the death penalty, while in Egypt, LGBTQ individuals face repeated harassment, arrests, and crackdowns. The match's selection has ignited debate over whether featuring these nations in a Pride celebration sends the right message. Seattle's Pride Match Advisory Committee (PMAC) stressed that the event celebrates local values and inclusion rather than endorsing any government policies. "We want to showcase Seattle and Washington as places where everyone belongs, using football's global reach to unite people across borders, cultures, and beliefs," PMAC stated.

Eric Wahl, brother of late journalist Grant Wahl—detained in Qatar 2022 for wearing a rainbow T-shirt—praised the initiative. Posting on X, he said, "Having Egypt and Iran in the Pride Match is a good thing because there are LGBTQAI+ people everywhere, and all will be welcome to be themselves in Seattle."

The Pride Match forms part of a wider program by SeattleFWC26, including a Juneteenth-themed United States vs Australia fixture on June 19 and a citywide Pride artwork contest. Organisers emphasise the project is locally led and not affiliated with FIFA.

The backdrop remains the ongoing concern for LGBTQ safety at major tournaments, especially after Qatar 2022, where rainbow symbols were restricted and some fans faced detentions. Advocacy groups, including the Sport and Rights Alliance, are urging FIFA to clarify anti-discrimination policies and ensure that queer supporters, particularly those from repressive regimes, are safe and welcome at the 2026 World Cup.

This Pride Match is shaping up as a high-profile statement that football can bridge cultures while advocating equality.

Xabi Alonso's Real Madrid era at crossroads ahead of Manchester City test

MADRID

Real Madrid faces a pivotal Champions League clash against Manchester City after a shocking 2-0 home defeat to Celta Vigo, putting coach Xabi Alonso under intense scrutiny.

The loss to Celta not only ended Madrid's perfect home league run but also left the team four points behind Barcelona in La Liga. The match saw Williot Swedberg score twice, Jude Bellingham leave with a bloody cut above his eye, and Madrid finish with nine men following red cards for Fran Garcia and Alvaro Carreras. It was only their second league defeat in 16 games, capping a run of just seven wins across all competitions.

Alonso admitted the performance was disappointing. "We are all angry, this was not the game we wanted, it was not the result we wanted," he said at the Bernabeu, emphasizing the need to move on quickly.
